Garson Flays Ont. Premier

Challenges Accuracy Of Drew's Statement On Family Allowance

WINNIPEG, Aug. 17.—(CP)—Premier Stuart S. Garson of Manitoba today urged post-war changes in Canada's taxation structure but supported the Federal Family Allowance Bill in opposition to views expressed by Premier George A. Drew of Ontario. Mr. Garson was addressing the silver jubilee luncheon of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association here.

(Mr. Drew, in an Ontario network broadcast Aug. 9, charged that the Allowance Bill, with an initial cost of $200,000,000, was an "obvious bribe" on the eve of the Quebec general election.)

Mr. Garson said Canada until the outbreak of the present war had one of the worst and most retrogressive tax structures in the world. "The 1930 structure was exceedingly ill-balanced, but during the depression it was not corrected—it was aggravated," he said.

"Unless we do something about it very soon, we shall carry forward into the critical post-war period a tax structure at least as bad as that which we had in the 1930's.

"This whole problem of public finance is so crucial in point of time for the majority of the provinces and for Canada itself, that in my judgment it is the gravest sort of error to couple its solution with other national issues and make its solution conditional upon the outcome of those other issues . . . in this connection I would like to record here my dissent from the views that Premier Drew of Ontario expressed in his radio speech of Aug. 9.

Hit Prairie Provinces

"There are other parts of this speech of Premier Drew with which I take issue. In it he aimed a shaft at Quebec which hit instead the prairie provinces and the maritimes," Mr. Garson said.

"Premier Drew said the people of Ontario would be called upon to pay in federal taxes nearly 50 per cent of the family allowances but would receive much less than this in benefits. . . ."

Mr. Garson declared that the Ontario premier, in his calculations, included federal taxes that were not within the power of a provincial legislature, and by the same method of figuring Quebec would pay 33 per cent of the cost of family allowances. He quoted the Toronto Financial Post estimate that Quebec would receive back 32 per cent.

Mr. Garson said the prairie provinces, "on Premier Drew's basis, would pay between six and seven per cent of national revenue and receive back 20 per cent of the family allowances. "But I challenge Premier Drew's figure of 50 per cent for Ontario's share as being inaccurate and unreliable for the purpose for which he has used it."

The Manitoba premier said that 50 per cent figures used by Mr. Drew included federal customs duties, excise tax and sales taxes paid by importers and manufacturers which were written into costs of goods and services Ontario and Quebec concerns sell in western Canada and the maritimes.

Has No Power to Reach

"It should be emphasized that when Premier Drew undertakes to think up ways of spending in Ontario customs, excise and sales taxes made by Ontario companies in other provinces, he is discussing revenues which his provincial government has no power whatever to reach," said Mr. Garson.

If such a situation existed, Mr. Garson said, "the west and the maritimes would become to a greater degree than they are now, economic colonies, not so much of Ontario and Quebec, as of Toronto and Montreal. . . ."

In post-war years, Mr. Garson suggested a taxation sys-

Premier King Says:

Canada Leads Entire World In Providing for Veterans

OTTAWA, Aug. 17.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said last night that "with the War Service Grants Act crowning the measures previously enacted Canada leads the world" in making provision for servicemen after the war.

Speaking over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Mr. King gave an outline of the benefits and arrangements mad for the re-establishment of servicemen into civilian life and declared the provision made is "the most comprehensive any country has ever made to re-establish its fighting men."

Mr. King's broadcast was part of the free-time granted by the CBC to allow national political parties to outline their platform and plans. It was the third broadcast by Liberal party supporters since the free-time policy was inaugurated in June.

CARE FOR DEPENDENTS

"Prior to the recent session of parliament Mr. King said, provision was made for the dependents of men who gave their lives and for disabled men through pensions. Already payable, children of disabled men or men who lost their lives now would receive family allowances.

Provision also has been made for medical care of veterans who

Western Canadian Troops Storm, Capture Falaise

By ROSS MUNRO

WITH THE 1ST CANADIAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 17.—(CP)—Under a cloak of the deepest secrecy covering most military operations in north-west France for two days, the Canadian army launched an attack eastwards with strong forces and our troops are now over the Dives river.

This new offensive, which could not be disclosed until now, went on while Falaise was being attacked and captured by Canadian infantry and tanks. Falaise, major road centre dominating the northern end of the Normandy pocket escape gap, fell to western Canada forces which fought their way through the city during the night and this morning.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon (8 a.m., C.D.T.) the blackout on news of the new push was lifted and the story can now be told.

The town of St. Pierre on the south bank of the Dives river, 10 miles north-east of Falaise and 15 miles east of Caen, has been captured in this spectacular swing to the east. St. Pierre is on the Falaise-Lisieux road which now is cut in a dozen places.

Wide Range of Problems Included in Draft Agenda For Dom.-Prov. Conference

OTTAWA, Aug. 17.—(CP)—Practically the whole range of economic, financial and social problems of Canada was included in the draft agenda for the Dominion-Provincial Conference submitted to the provincial governments by Defence Minister Ralston as acting prime minister last May 13.

The conference now has been postponed until after the next federal election, Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced Monday in the House of Commons.

The draft agenda and correspondence were published yesterday in votes and proceedings of the House of Commons.

Only two provinces, Quebec and Manitoba made any suggestions for alterations or additions to the draft agenda in response to Col. Ralston's letter.

In the draft agenda the purpose of the meeting was stated as:

1. To appraise in so far as foreseeable what the post-war situation, problems and needs of Canada will be.

2. To consider the broad lines of governmental policy and action which would be appropriate to assist in meeting these problems and needs.

3. To recommend the most effective allocation of responsibility among governments in Canada for carrying out policies generally agreed on as desirable, with particular attention to the

Gets Two Years In Penitentiary On 'Tool' Charge

Having a lengthy criminal record dating back to 1932 George Wade, Vancouver, was found guilty in district court Thursday by His Honor Judge J. D. Matheson on a charge of being in possession of house breaking tools, and was sentenced to serve two years in Prince Albert penitentiary.

Alertness of a CNR section foreman at Chip Lake led to the arrest of Wade. The section foreman, J. Grekul, came across the accused on June 7 last trespassing on the right of way. On questioning him he became suspicious, and asked Wade to accompany him to Northville. On the way to the Northville store, this witness told the court, the accused threw away a sack which, when examined, contained tools capable of being used for housebreaking purposes.

Manning Supported Drew on Plan For Preliminary Meet

OTTAWA, Aug. 17—(CP)—Premier Ernest Manning of Alberta was the only provincial premier to support a suggestion by Premier George Drew of Ontario that a preliminary meeting be held to discuss the agenda of the proposed Dominion-provincial conference, it has been disclosed in an exchange of correspondence published in the Commons votes and proceedings.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced last Monday that the conference would not be held until after a federal general election.

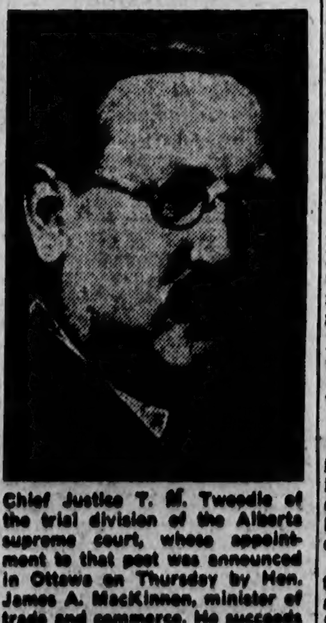
Duplessis Seeking More Quebec Seats

QUEBEC, Aug. 17.—(CP)—Premier-elect Maurice Duplessis said last night he met Justice Minister St. Laurent yesterday and told him he "hoped that at the next elections this province will not be deprived of its rightful representation at Ottawa."

Mr. Duplessis added that "according to constitution" the western provinces should have several less seats then they now have in the Commons.

"It is a crying injustice to deprive Quebec of the influence it is entitled to at Ottawa," Mr. Duplessis said. "I have asked Mr. St. Laurent, who represents Quebec in the federal cabinet, to see to it that such an injustice is not carried to the point where an election would be held on a basis which is in violation of an essential part of the Canadian constitution."

Chief Justice



Chief Justice T. M. Tweedie of the trial division of the Alberta supreme court, whose appointment to that post was announced in Ottawa on Thursday by Hon. James A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce. He succeeds Chief Justice W. C. Ives, who has resigned from the court prior to retirement on pensions. Chief Justice Tweedie was born at River John, N.S., on March 4, 1872. He was admitted to the Alberta bar in 1907 and was appointed a judge of the trial division, Alberta supreme court in 1921.

Canadian First Army Lashes Out in New Offensive; Yanks Take Rail Centre of Orleans

LONDON, Aug. 17.—(BUP)—The German high command said today that American troops are fighting near St. Arnoult, 22 miles west of Paris.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, AEF, Aug. 17.—The Canadian 1st Army lashed out in a new offensive between Troarn and Falaise in the direction of the Seine river today as American tank columns closed to within 32 miles of Paris with the capture of the railway centre of Orleans.

The companion drives launched by Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery threatened to forge a great new net around German 7th army troops fleeing from the Falaise-Argentan pocket, and front line dispatches said that the Americans were driving on through relatively weak opposition toward the outskirts of the French metropolis. German reports said the thunder of Allied guns could be heard clearly in the streets of Paris.

As the Americans pushed on, Lt. Gen. H. D. G. Crerar's first Canadian Army opened its new offensive eastward and southeastward from the Caen—Falaise sector, advancing more than four miles and capturing St. Pierre Sur Dives, Mezidon and Courcy.

The new thrust apparently was aimed at forcing the Germans back to the Seine, more than 60 miles to the east and pinning them against the river with Crerar's men on their northern flank and Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's on the south.

ON A FALAISE FRONT, FRANCE, Aug. 17.—(AP)—A British staff officer said tonight "German transport is an awful mess," as Allied armies cut deeper into both flanks of the Normandy bulge and narrowed the Falaise - Argentan escape hatch to less than four miles.

Units of the battered German Seventh army still were fleeing eastward from the Normandy pocket and it was believed that much of its armored elements which escaped the trap had run into a new and greater one.

Patton's rampaging tanks at Dreux were barely 20 miles from the bend of the Seine above Paris and could easily shift northward

Allied Armies To Occupy Both Germany, Japan

By HOWARD FLEIGER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—(AP)—President Roosevelt returned to Washington today from a 15,000-mile war trip into the Pacific to declare that Allied armies will drive in and occupy Germany and Japan even should resistance collapse short of enemy borders.

It was the first definite assertion that Germany and Japan will not be able to use the Allies' own war goal—unconditional surrender—to keep Allied forces out of their homelands.

This time, the President said, Germany will not escape the military occupation which she dodged by armistice in the First Great War.

NEWS CONFERENCE

Mr. Roosevelt made the statement to a news conference aboard his special train as it approached Washington at a time when Allied forces were pushing ashore in powerful new landings on the southern coast of France.

Mr. Roosevelt—back in Washington after a 35-day absence that took him to Hawaii and the Aleutians where his ship skirted within 900 miles of Japanese territory—planned to discuss his Pacific tour as

Four Ports Taken

Beachheads Linked In Southern France

ROME, Aug. 17.—The Allied 7th Army has linked all its beachheads along a 50-mile front on the south coast of France, driven 25 miles inland, liberated 500 square miles of territory and pushed to within 10 miles of both Cannes and the big French naval base of Toulon, a special communique by Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson announced today.

At least four seaports—St. Raphael, Ste. Maxime, St. Tropez and Le Lavandou—and five inland towns have been captured, the communique said.

"The swift advance of American and French troops inland continues," it said, "and numerous additional towns and villages have been taken.

JUNCTION EFFECTED

"A junction with strong air-borne units dropped far behind the enemy lines before dawn on D-Day has been effected. French and American reinforcements, including armor, are pouring ashore. Casualties continue exceptionally light."

Observers Say:

Special Session Of Legislature Appears Remote

Prospects of a special session of the Alberta Legislature this fall now appear remote, according to government spokesmen Thursday.

It was announced earlier, by both Premier Ernest Manning and Hon. Lucien Maynard, K.C., attorney-general, that calling of a special session was under consideration.

Business to be dealt with at the session was legislation dealing with the proposed $1,000,000 provincial housing plan, and a special act to increase membership in the Legislature to 60, bringing in three special armed service representatives, one from each of the three military services.

The election of armed services' members would involve sending special emissaries overseas, to wherever Alberta men were fighting, to conduct enumeration and vote proceedings.

According to available information, all these plans can be implemented by order-in-council, to be ratified at the next regular session in February, 1945. The questions have received intensive study of cabinet ministers and legal authorities.

It is known Premier Ernest Manning is not in favor of calling the special session, provided provisional legislation can be passed by the executive council. If the order-in-council plan is rejected, however, the premier is expected to call a session probably late in October.

Under regulations passed some sessions ago, payment to members at special sessions is $10 a day, limited to five clear sitting days. No travelling allowances are paid for other than regular sittings.

Regular sessional indemnity is $2,000 for private members, $1,800 for cabinet ministers, with extra allowances for the Speaker, deputy speaker, and leader of the opposition. Travel allowances are given in addition to these payments.

Canadian Army Lashes Out in New Offensive in that direction to complete the loop of destruction around the battered enemy.

There was no immediate word as to whether the Americans would attempt to break directly into Paris or bypass the city to the north.

The Americans stormed and captured Dreux and Chartres, 39 miles west and 46 miles southwest of Paris, early today and race on to the east banks of the Eure and Aunay rivers—the latter 32 airline miles southwest of Paris.

Simultaneously, another column swept down on the Loire river, seized Chateaudun and St. Calais and drove on to take the railway hub of Orleans, 70 miles south-southwest of the capital.

ASTRIDE MAIN RAILWAY

The fall or Orleans put the Americans astride the main trunk railway lines from Toures, Bordeaux and the Spanish border and cut off German armies of the north from direct communication with their supply and reserve bases in southwestern France.

British United Press Correspondents Henry T. Correll and Robert C. Miller, reported that the retreating Germans were blowing up roads and bridges as they fell back, leaving rearguard formations to face the advancing Americans.

Chartres itself fell after a brief fight with one force of Nazi troops who quit when French patriots rose in rebellion when the Americans drove in from the west.

NAZI DISASTER NEAR

The battle of the Normandy pocket, meanwhile, appeared to be nearing a disastrous end for some 50,000 Nazis still pinned down under the converging guns and armor of three Allied armies.

Lt. Gen. H. D. G. Crerar's Canadian infantry stormed through the smoldering town of Falaise at the eastern end of the Normandy trap last night and fanned out to the south and east, while Lt. Gen. Sir Miles Dempsey's British 2nd army forces to the west knifed as much as seven miles through the crumpling German perimeter defences.

Allied tanks and armored cars were running riot through the heart of the pocket early today, shelling and machine-gunning the trapped Nazis form all sides and herding them exorably toward a narrow corner between Falaise and Argentan, where American troops held the western end of the narrow gap.

Some enemy units admittedly were slipping through the Allied cordon under cover of darkness, but front dispatches indicated that 50,000 or more Nazi troops still were caught between the converging British, Canadian and American armies and facing imminent death or capture.

THREAT IN SOUTHWEST

Far to the southeast, an even greater threat to the German armies of northwestern France was shaping up swiftly, as the Nazi high command reported armored battles raging around Dreux, 39 miles east from Paris, Chartres, 20 miles to the south and 46 miles from the capital, and Chateaudun, less than 28 miles from Orleans.

Still another American column was reported racing southward toward Tosrs, 70 miles west-southwest of Orleans.

The Nazi Transocean news agency later said American spearheads had slashed past Chartres on the Paris road and heavy fighting also was raging "in the area of Orleans."

Allied headquarters refused all comment on the German reports, but the enemy accounts indicated that Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery has shifted the weight of American armor from the doomed German 7th Army to the new offensive which would loop a great outer ring around the Normandy pocket, and, if Orleans fell, cut the enemy forces in the north from their main supply lines to southwestern France.

As Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's mechanized units apparently struck out for Paris, British and Canadian troops, together with the Americans closed in for the final destruction of the cornered seventh army. The Americans drove forward from Donfront and Gers and mopping up isolated German remnants in the Jufigny area and in the forest of Andaine.

At the southern end of the gap, American troops still were meeting desperate resistance from enemy detachments holding out in Argentan, most of which was in German hands, and around Rannes, 10 miles to the west.

DESPERATE FIGHTING

The heaviest fighting continued to centre around Falaise and Argentan to the south, where the Germans were fighting desperately to hold open a gap of barely five miles through which they still were hoping to extricate part of their force under cover of night.

British United Press war correspondent Richard D. McMillan entered Falaise with the Canadians last night and reported that German suicide squads fought to the death for every street corner in the ancient Norman citadel.

"The town of Falaise is going up in smoke and flame and is a riot of cannon and machine gun fire," McMillan wrote.

Canadian first army troops mopped up the last Nazi resistance in the town early today and pushed on beyond other fields and highways littered with enemy dead and the blackened hulks of Nazi tanks.

British forces from the north crushed down simultaneously. Capturing the important highway junction of Flers after a five-mile advance from the Tinchebray area. British, Canadian and American patrols linked up south and west of the town.

Along the northern rim of the picket, British troops fought eastward along the Conde-Falaise highway, captured Conde and cleared practically the entire 16-mile stretch of road between the towns.

soon as possible with military leaders and State Secretary Cordell Hull.

He also will meet promptly with congressional leaders, he said, but he does not intend to make a formal report to Congress.

ANOTHER MEETING?

The President's return to Washington spurred immediate speculation over the possibility of another meeting soon with Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain. It has been their custom since the war began to meet about once every six months and the last time they were together was in December.

Mr. Roosevelt said he knew nothing of internal troubles in Germany that can make us feel sure the German war machine will blow up early. We hope there will be more trouble inside Germany, he said, but that may turn out to be wishful thinking.

He said there is an interesting psychology study not only of the German people but of their military command—a characteristic to throw up the sponge when their borders are menaced because they don't want Germany over-run. They quit before we got in the last time, he pointed out, but they won't be spared invasion this time.

Turning to Japan, he said that country must be sealed off from the peace-loving world until she proves herself willing and able to live with peaceful countries.

All Beachheads In South Drive Are Linked Up

can airborne troops have broken into Cannes and engaged the German garrison in fierce street fighting. The Nazi controlled Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau reported from Berlin that the Allies had occupied both Cannes and Nice, 17 miles to the northeast, but this appeared to be premature.)

The communique disclosed that the Allies made their deepest penetration of southern France at Lorgues, 25 miles north of the liberated port of Le Levandou, which lies 21 miles east of Toulon. Airborne troops captured Lorgues, then linked up with ground forces farther south.

TAKE STRATEGIC TOWNS

The strategic road junction towns of Collobrieres, 7½ miles north of Le Levandou, and Le Luc, 11 miles farther north, also were captured.

With the fall of St. Raphael, 10 miles southwest of Cannes, the Allies won the port from which Napoleon embarked for Elba in 1814. Frejus, about a mile inland from St. Raphael, also was captured.

The port of St. Tropez lies 12 miles southwest of St. Raphael, while St. Maxime is just across a narrow bay from S. Tropez.

Disclosure that American spearheads already are within 10 miles of Toulon put them considerably beyond the towns named in the communique and indicated that they were two miles east of Hyeres. One unconfirmed report said vanguards were within six miles of Toulon.

(A German DNB dispatch said new Allied landing attempts on either side of Toulon had been repulsed.)

Other Allied sources reported the capture of the coastal town of Dramont, four miles east of St. Raphael.

Allied reconnaissance fliers reported Nice harbor was in flames, presumably the result of German demolitions preparatory to abandonment of the city, largest on the Riviera.

RESISTANCE STIFFENS

Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, supreme Allied commander in the Mediterranean, announced in his third communique of the invasion that enemy resistance, though light, "has not been as slight as at first thought."

"Our casualties have been moderate, while there is good evidence that enemy losses have been heavy," the communique said.

"Our troops continue to advance. At some points, light elements are 11 miles inland. The assault forces that came in over the beach have contacted elements of the paratroopers who landed further inland.

"Unloadings have exceeded expectations. The assault formations are completely ashore with full tank and tank destroyer units and a well-balanced stock of ammunition and supplies.

"All seacoast defenses have been silenced through effective air and naval bombardment."

OTTAWA, Aug. 17—(CP)—The two Canadian naval ships participating in the new landings on the south of France are the big infantry landing ships—the Prince Henry, in command of Capt. V. S. Godfrey of Ottawa and Victoria, and the Prince David, in command of Cmdr. T. D. Kelly of Toronto and Victoria, it was announced at naval headquarters here today.

Fresh from the Normandy landings the big Canadian ships—peacetime Canadian National cruise ships on the Pacific coast and later auxiliary cruisers—carry large numbers of infantry. The troops are put ashore in assault landing craft slung from the mother ship's davits.

tem similar to recommendations of the Sirois report.

The wartime Dominion-provincial taxation agreement gave the Dominion the direct taxation field and this he suggested would be necessary to finance the Dominion's post-war program, including social services at a time when provinces also would need higher revenues than in pre-war years.

Highest Provincial Rates

"Before the war ours were among the highest provincial rates of income and corporation taxes in Canada," he said. "To increase these rates, and to superimpose them on the top of federal rates at their present level would be simply out of the question." Mr. Garson suggested five other provinces would be in the same position.

Mr. Garson said postponement of the Dominion-Provincial Conference until after the next federal election is all to the good if the problems can be approached then in a less partisan atmosphere.

He urged the conference be held promptly after the federal election because "no Dominion government with any sense of responsibility can grapple with the problems with which this country is going to be faced . . . without first reaching some solution of this basic problem."

Of the six provinces likely unable to increase taxation after the war, Mr. Garson said:

"Are we going to place these provinces in a position to carry out the post-war program, or is our objective to reward our returning men with another depression?

"In that depression are they going to be solaced by the prospect of Premier Drew's spending the $100,000,000 per year of which he spoke the other day, on more and better family allowances, roads, health and debt reduction for Ontario?

"Are we building a nation, or the Balkan states of North America? Are we Canadians first . . . we intend to provide the foundation of Dominion-provincial relationships upon which an efficient free society can be built. . . ."

ville," but he was unable to give the names of any residents in this territory.

The accused was first convicted on a breaking and entering charge at New Westminster, B.C., and was sentenced to serve six months in jail. In 1933 he was sentenced to serve two years on a robbery with violence charge. This offense took place at Vancouver.

In 1937, at Saskatoon, he received a sentence of 27 months on a breaking and entering charge, and in 1938 he drew a two-year penitentiary sentence at Winnipeg on a charge of breaking and entering, being in possession of house breaking tools, and a quantity of explosives. In 1940 he was sentenced to 27 months on house breaking charges.

He is suspected, police said, of being implicated in the break-in at the Swanson Lumber Co. office at Northville, early in June.

Nazi Tanks Return To Florence Area

By JAMES E. ROPER

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

Copyright, 1944, by British United Press

ROME, Aug. 17.—German tank units returned to the northern section of Florence yesterday, killing civilians and carabinieri, and launching a reign of terror which still was in progress today with the food and water situation growing more critical by the hour.

Less than a week ago the Germans withdrew their main forces northward to new positions just north of the Mugnone canal in the outskirts of Florence, but since then they have made a no man's land of the suburbs with machine gun and tank fire.

Many thousands of civilians who remained in that area foraged desperately for food in the nearby countryside, although Allied military government officials still were trying to bring food to them across the Arno river from the Allied-held southern section of the big city.

British Eighth Army troops continued efforts to clear the city of enemy snipers, and an order was broadcast prohibiting the carrying of arms by any persons in Florence except the carabinieri.

Search Continued For Escaped Nazis In South Alberta

LETHBRIDGE, Aug. 17.—(CP)—Search for two German prisoners of war who escaped from the hostel at Barnwell early Sunday morning continued in this Southern Alberta area yesterday. The men are Heinze Pfeifer, 23, and Erich Bobrahn, 48. It was learned yesterday from military officers the escaped Germans are barbers and had gone to the Barnwell hostel Saturday night for a few days to give haircuts to the 70 prisoners of war stationed at the hostel as a manpower pool for farmers of the district. A few hours after their arrival, they made their escape.

Falaise Falls To Troops From Western Canada

highway, was captured two days ago and Canadian army forces surged on to the area of Mezidon, important railway centre four miles north of St. Pierre. (A Reuter dispatch from headquarters said Mezidon was captured).

Between St. Pierre and Falaise other forces got over the river at the village of Jort, three miles south-west of St. Pierre and pushed on into wooded hilly country.

Fighting is going on in the Mezidon area and all along this eastern flank of the Canadian army where the front has blown wide open.

British troops are playing an important part in this new drive directed by Gen. Crerar.

Two days ago the ban was imposed on news of all Allied and enemy movements east of the Caen-Falaise-Argentan-Le Mans line and it has not been possible to mention operations of Canadian troops attacking Falaise from the north-east while others closed on the city from the north and north-west.

Western Canada infantry and tanks fought their way through the city during the night and this morning, but the final mopping-up of Germans holding out to the end in buildings now has been achieved and Falaise is completely in Canadian hands.

Capture of the city is the climax to the Canadian army drive down the Caen-Falaise highway which began 10 days ago.

Now that they have gained Falaise, the 1st Canadian Army's first full-scale offensive has been a great success.

BITTER FIGHT

The advance into Falaise started yesterday, putting western Canadians into one of their bitterest fights since the battles just south of Caen.

At the north edge of the escape gap, the city was first surrounded. Canadians fought through the streets and the final mopping up of snipers soon started.

The Germans had anti-tank guns, machine-guns and rifles hidden among wrecked buildings.

The Ante river, which swings through the north-western outskirts, was the greatest obstacle, but Sherman tanks were put across and Canadian infantry worked their way over and into the streets of Falaise, covered by the fire of other tank squadrons sitting on the slopes in front of the city.

Reds Abandon Ossow Under Heavy Attacks

By HENRY SHAPIRO

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

MOSCOW, Aug. 17.—Russian assault forces battled today through the streets of the outflanked German stronghold of Sandomierz, 115 miles south of Warsaw, pressing the fiercely resisting garrison against the Vistula.

Farther north, the Red Army suffered its first setback of the summer offensive. The Russian abandoned Ossow, six and a half miles east-northeast of Praga, Warsaw's easternmost borough, in the face of heavy German attacks, but were expected to launch a new frontal assault on the Polish capital within a matter of days.

The Germans also were attacking savagely west and southwest of the Soviet line facing East Prussia and break through a Soviet ring of encirclement and rescue some 30 divisions trapped in Latvia and Estonia. The Red Army line held firm.

PENETRATE NAZI LINE

(German broadcasts said the Russians had begun an attack along a 100-mile front facing the eastern border of East Prussia and had penetrated the Nazi line in the vicinity of Vilkaviskis, 11 miles from the frontier).

Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 1st Ukrainian army broke into Sandomierz, on the west bank of the Vistula near its confluence with the San, yesterday and began a house-to-house battle with the garrison.

The Soviet drive from the southwest, supported by powerful tank and artillery formations, gradually was forcing the Germans back on the Vistula, where scores already were reported to have drowned.

Sixteen tanks, five armored trucks and nine guns were destroyed by Konev's men in Sandomierz yesterday. Sandomierz was outflanked Aug. 3, when the Soviets forged the Vistula just south of the city and pressed on 30 miles to the northwest and nearly 50 miles to the southwest, menacing both Kielce and Krakow.

ATTACK THROWN BACK

The Germans counter-attacked the bridgehead with 150 tanks and self-propelled guns yesterday, but were thrown back to their original positions with a loss of 30 tanks, 20 armored trucks and 30 field guns. Prisoners said one German infantry regiment had lost up to 60 per cent of its effectives in killed and wounded in the past few days.

Loss of Ossow just east of Praga was the first official confirmation that the Soviets had approached that close to Warsaw, the last previous position reported in that area being Mostoka, 11 miles northeast of Praga.

New Labor Code To Be Rejected By Sask. Govt.

REGINA, Aug. 17—(CP)—Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan announced last night an act passed at the last session of the legislature placing all industries in the province under provisions of the national labor code will be rescinded at the October sitting of the legislature.

The action would return industry in the province, with the exception of war plants, to the control of provincial labor regulations.

HELD UNDESIRABLE

Mr. Douglas said application of the national code to provincial industry was "undesirable and unacceptable" because the measure "will cease to exist six months after the war and is therefore of a temporary nature."

The national labor code provides compulsory collective bargaining and conciliation for war industries and national occupations which previously were under the industrial disputes inquiry act. Mining, public utilities, shipping and railways automatically comes under the act.

Provision was made for any province to take action to apply the code to all industries and occupations within its jurisdiction, and seven provinces, including Saskatchewan, made the code applicable within their borders.

French Commandos Struck First Blow In Allied Invasion of Southern France

By DOUG HOW

ABOARD HMCS PRINCE DAVID OFF SOUTHERN FRANCE, Aug. 15.—(Delayed)—(CP)—The landing-craft nosed into the silent beach. Soldiers poured ashore and disappeared in the darkness—and the French were home again.

Landed Troops

Lieut. George "Lefty" Allin, R.C.N.V.R., veteran of the North African, Sicilian and Normandy campaigns, who was in charge of a craft landing French Commandos in the invasion of southern France. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Norman Allin, 11110 86 avenue. See story on page 3.

Canadian and British sailors landed these French commandos on a beach east of Toulon six hours before the giant main assault broke against the Riviera beaches a few miles farther east.

Little assault craft travelled the unprecedented distance of 13 miles, literally inching the last quarter mile to complete the success of an operation that depended on stealth and worked perfectly.

EDMONTON VETERAN

I went in with a craft under Lieut. George Allin of Edmonton, a veteran of the North African, Sicily and Normandy campaigns and returned seven hours later to this mother ship which came through the Normandy operation two months ago without a casualty, and did the same thing here.

As a trip it was a mixture of suspense, monotony and pleasure climaxed by the almost unbelievable ease of landing that gave all appearances of catching the enemy napping.

These French troops, returning to fight on their native soil, went in with the heavy task of knocking out gun positions on rocky cap Negre, and machine-gun positions on the beach, and seizing high ground dominating the coastal road to prevent the Germans from reaching the main assault beaches to the east.

STRANGE EXPEDITION

From the time the Prince David and her sister ships came to a stop 13 miles offshore, this was a strange expedition.

Everything was dominated by what could happen. A naval captain had warned it was bound to be tough and an admiral confessed fears that the Germans knew both when and where the landing would take place. We passed within three miles of Levant island, assaulted by a task force later. With the exception of American torpedo boats there was no immediate protection.

It was a starlit, moonless night and the little landing craft labored almost noiselessly for 3½ hours through gentle seas. For more than half an hour we were within sight of the island but nothing happened. And our hearts jumped again when an aircraft flew low overhead—but passed on.

To the west of our beach the Germans kept dropping flares both before and after our landing. As the first commandos went ashore on Cap Negre ahead of the main body there was a scattering of small arms fire but that was all.

In the distance over the horizon a faint glow reflected the bombing of Marseilles, 47 miles to the west.

JOURNEY SEEMED LONG

The entire journey had seemed long but nothing like the last half hour. We waited for a signal from a reconnaissance officer who had gone in a kayak but it seemed an eternity in coming.

At last the craft crept ahead in single line and ghosted in so slowly it was a surprise when AB. H. Woof, Hamilton, Ont., lowered the ramp and Frenchmen started to lope ashore.

Five men who had been towed behind in a rubber boat cut themselves afloat and paddled ashore.

As we backed away flares continued to our west. There was an occasional burst of machine-gun fire around Cap Negre but still nothing serious happened.

On our way back to the ship we heard a gun duel in progress and then saw something burning. It was a German corvette that exploded in flames as we were pulling aboard the Prince David.

SURVIVORS BURNED

Some of the survivors were badly burned and were brought aboard where they were treated by surgeons Lt.-Cmdr. Paul Schwager, Saskatoon, Sask., and Lt. John Beggs, Ottawa.

Our landing-craft, "Dirty Min II," had a crew which included Stoker John Scambler, Winnipeg.

For four master mechanics it was their fifth or sixth landing. They were Kermet Storey, Calgary and William Katanna, Winnipeg with six, and Bill Block, Daysland, Alta., and James Trevor, Winnipeg, with five.

Seamen Coxswains in command of landing crews included: Ams. Donald McIndoe, Vancouver; William McCaine, Elmwood, Man., and Daniel Ward, Regina. The Prince David, commanded by Cmdr. T. D. Kelly, Victoria and Toronto, combined with a sister ship to make Canada's naval contribution to this new landing.

Perennial Wheat Tests Successful

By DANIEL DE LUCE

MOSCOW, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Perennial wheat, dream of Russian agriculture for a generation, has been successful in practical field tests this year on collective farms ranging from Siberia to Kuban.

In experimental plots at his plant in the Generatics Institute not far from Moscow, Professor N. V. Tsitsin already has developed several varieties of wheat which persist as long as five years after sowing and whose kernels have a high gluten content and are well-flavored for bread.

(A Moscow cable to the CBC Monday said the new wheat "may alter the methods of earning a living for many millions of people, including, perhaps, Canadian farmers.")

The immediate goal of Tsitsin, with the full co-operation of the Soviet agriculture commissariat, is a wheat which will give a normal harvest for two years from one large scale planting.

SASKATOON, Aug. 17.—(CP)—Perennial wheat holds little promise for the prairie provinces because there is not sufficient moisture there to produce an annual paying crop, Dr. L. E. Kirk, dean of the College of Agriculture, University of Saskatchewan, said last night.

require it. Men are entitled to be sent into civil life in as fit a condition as medical science can place them.

Mr. King also outlined the maintenance allowances payable to veterans while awaiting employment, taking vocational or university training or awaiting returns from business; the Veterans Land Act to aid men in setting themselves up as farmers or fishermen; preferences in employment; benefits under the Unemployment Insurance Act law requiring the reinstatement of veterans in pre-enlistment jobs, and free tuition at universities and trade schools.

MAJORITY RE-ESTABLISHED

Of the 150,000 veterans already discharged, most have already been re-established but, Mr. King said, by the end of the war close to 1,000,000 men will come out fit and not in need of pension or medical care. They will be interested in an opportunity to lead a useful life.

On discharge, he said, they would receive one month's pay and allowances plus a clothing allowance of $100 and transportation to their place of enlistment.

The War Service Grants Act, passed at the recent session, provided men with a cash nest-egg which amounted to $1,041.97 for a private soldier with one year's service in Canada, three years overseas, married and having two children. He would get $411.97 in cash on discharge and $630 in monthly instalments.

WANTS BETTER CANADA

Soldiers, sailors and airmen were citizens first of all and would want to live in a better Canada than before the war. They were young and looked forward to having families.

"We have taken steps to help ensure full employment and a high level of income after the war," said Mr. King. "We are proceeding with social insurance against the major economic hazards. We are actively pressing for action to promote world trade and to maintain and expand Canada's markets at home and abroad."

"We are planning for the rapid and efficient conversion of war industries to meet peacetime needs. We have enacted legislation to promote housing, slum clearance and community planning.

"We have extended banking services and provided additional credit facilities for industrial expansion, farm improvement and the building and modernizing of houses. We have provided social insurance for farmers and fishermen through the establishment of floors under their prices.

"In the greatest measure of all we have provided for the well-being of the nation's children."

1,300,000 Persons Voted in Quebec

QUEBEC, Aug. 17—(CP)—Tabulation by The Canadian Press of the popular vote in the Quebec general elections Aug. 8 indicated yesterday that approximately 1,300,000 persons exercised their franchise—more than double the previous record set in 1936.

Liberal candidates who captured 37 seats, polled approximately 39.9 per cent of the ballots, while the Union Nationale took 47 seats on 37.3 per cent of the votes. The Bloc Populaire gained four seats with 14.6 per cent of the ballots.

With 49 polls still to come out o 6,402 and with at least three riding subject to judicial recounts, the ur official figures gave the Liberals 516,247 votes, the Unio Nationale 483,658 and the Bloc Populaire 188,839.

The CCF polled 35,092 votes, against 2,513 in 1939 and 1,469 in 1936.

1904 40TH ANNIVERSARY YEAR 1944

...The building of a great car....
a great industry..a mighty war plant

In 1904 when a little group of Canadian business men decided to found a company for the manufacture of automobiles, they little dreamed what an historic step they were taking. They were convinced that the motor car would one day be an important means of transportation, though most people at that time looked upon it as a rich man's plaything. But it is doubtful if they foresaw that in forty years their little plant would grow into an industry employing thousands of men, supplying cars to millions of men and women through hundreds of Ford dealers. Little did they dream that in a future war of nations, Ford Motor Company of Canada would become the Empire's largest single source of military transport.

1904—Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited commenced operations in a small building formerly used as a wagon factory. Seventeen men were employed, and the cars at first were assembled from parts imported from Detroit. In the first year of operation, 117 Ford cars were produced.

1908—After two years of exhaustive tests, the Company decided to standardize on the Model "T" Ford Car, using mass production methods. With increasing demand, the plant was expanded to ten times its former size. By 1912 the number of employees had increased to 565.

1913—Ford of Canada first started building its own engines thereby creating a new major outlet for Canadian raw materials. Since its introduction five years earlier, the Model "T" engine had already become famous for its simplicity of design and absolute dependability under all conditions.

1915—By this time there was a chain of more than 550 Ford dealers and nine Ford Branches across Canada. The Company always believed it owed a debt to the public—that of providing expert service and genuine replacement parts for Ford cars as long as those cars were in operation.

1916—Plant expansion continued as demand increased. The War, 1914-1918, called for added output. In 1916-1917, production reached a new high of 50,000 units as a new branch assembly plan went into operation at Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg, London and Saint John.

1927—After completely re-tooling the entire plant, Ford of Canada came out with the new Model "A". The car's modern design, power, speed and low cost operation won for it immediate acceptance. Buyers made their selection from several different models with color and upholstery options.

1932—Saw the introduction of the Ford V-8 engine. For the first time, a powerful, smooth, V-type eight-cylinder engine was made available to Canadian motorists in the popular price field. Its economy, simplicity and outstanding performance made it the talk of the automobile world.

1939—70% of all automobiles exported from Canada were built by Ford, more than half of the entire Ford output going abroad. The huge export business, started with the founding of the company was built up in every part of the British Empire with the exception of the British Isles.

1940—Ford of Canada was already producing a large volume of war equipment and heavy shipments were made to many different battlefronts. As early as 1936 the groundwork for the production of military vehicles had been laid in closest co-operation with the Department of National Defence.

1942—The last passenger car for the duration came off the assembly line, climaxing a series of manufacturing curtailments of the previous 12 months. Now, until Victory was won, the Company's huge production was to be still multiplied but strictly confined to war equipment and essential vehicles.

1943—Ford employees had increased to 15,637, double the number prior to wartime. 4,300 Ford employees had gone into the Armed Services. 15,000 blood transfusions had been given at the Ford Clinic. Employees had invested $10,000,000 in Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates.

1944—Midnight, August 17, the Company's 40th anniversary—and out of its mighty war plant comes a Universal Carrier, the 27,678th of its kind, the 338,978th Military vehicle for World War II, the 1,893,162nd unit produced by Ford of Canada during its forty year history in this Great Dominion.

A Wise Postponement

Prime Minister Mackenzie King will be applauded for a wise decision in the matter of the Dominion-Provincial conference. To postpone that conference until after the federal election, as the Prime Minister has decided, is the only way to render it effective.

Certainly any such conference held within the next few months would do more harm than good. Instead of arriving at sane and deliberate conclusions of mutual cooperation, it could very easily degenerate into a political wrestling match.

The CCF government in Saskatchewan has recently come into office and will not be ready for some months to participate in national affairs. It has a great deal of domestic reorganization to accomplish before it can set its mind to the adjustment of its policies into the national picture.

Quebec is in somewhat the same position although in that province the situation is aggravated by the fact that the government is still flushed with victory in a campaign aimed at the repudiation, not only of the federal government, but of the rest of Canada.

New Brunswick goes to the polls on August 28 and will not be ready to talk of national affairs until winter at least.

For obvious reasons all three of these provinces could contribute very little, at present, to a Dominion-Provincial conference.

The real stickler, of course, more than any of these, is the attitude of Premier George Drew of Ontario. Just how desperately Premier Drew is casting about for a provincial election excuse is revealed in his current political formula of more whisky and no family allowances. He feels that by precipitating an Ontario election on the basis of race antagonism he might so-consolidate his position in Ontario that, being the only Tory premier in Canada, his position in the Tory federal field would be pleasantly enhanced.

Quite clearly, Premier Drew is in no mood to sit down at a council table with Prime Minister Mackenzie King and the provincial premiers. One may not enter easily into political amenities with those upon whom one has just declared war. And in taking his stand against family allowances, Premier Drew has declared war upon practically everybody in Canada—certainly upon all those who realize that the purchasing power involved in family allowances is one of Canada's cardinal needs. It should be remembered that family allowances passed the Commons without a dissenting vote.

Mr. King, therefore, has made a sensible decision. Why call a conference which at the moment would be doomed to failure?

Houde Is Loose

Camillien Houde, former mayor of Montreal who was interned in 1940 for utterances calculated to impede the favorable prosecution of the war, has been released from custody.

It is a move that will not secure the approbation of the Canadian people.

Houde was not serving a punitive sentence. He was not being punished for an offence. He was not under lock and key for a definite period in order to pay any debt to society. Therefore there is no question of his offence being expiated because the question of expiation never arose.

He was confined because he was a menace, because, having once blocked the war effort, it was considered likely that he might do so again.

In what way has the situation changed? What transformation has Houde undergone that would alter his views or his capacity for harm?

The people of Canada are entitled to know.

A Useful Session

Parliament has completed a session which history will doubtless record as being of intense usefulness. It had its high spots and its low spots. It had its surprises and its disappointments.

It had, too, its effect upon personal prestige. Prime Minister King, for instance, emerges from its labors with a decided gain in popular approval, not only for the amazing success of his work in external affairs, but for the equally amazing change in his attitude evinced in the demand he made for increased public purchasing power while introducing the family allowances bill.

The session, as we have said, had its high spots and its low spots. And if the low spots were Mr. Ilsley's stubborn adherence to the private money monopoly and his determination to keep Canadians in the straightjacket of "sound money", the high spot was Mr. King's inferential repudiation of Mr. Ilsley in his family allowances speech.

For in that one phrase, the Prime minister denied everything that Mr. Ilsley has been trying to force down the throats of Canadians for the past five years.

"Purchasing power," said Mr. King, "must be provided where it is most needed.

Mr. Ilsley's contempt for the public's purchasing power was well illustrated when he refused to rearrange his budget to give purchasing power to Canada's old age pensioners.

The Prime Minister revealed in this one speech that his personal position of 1935 and 1940, when he stood out for monetary reform, had not changed and that the preoccupations of war and external affairs had merely crowded this matter to one side.

There will be many Canadians who will argue that the matter of purchasing power for the people of this country should not have been crowded aside by anything. Nevertheless, there it is. And Mr. King did at least show that he had not forgotten.

Both in this statement and in the tranquility of his closing address to the Commons, the Prime Minister evinced an attitude that will reclaim for him much popular support.

A Regrettable Mistake

It is most inexcusable to labor those accidents that occur in wartime and result in an unnecessary loss of life. It is even more inexcusable to labor them in a manner that might incite resentment between the services or between ally and ally.

But one cannot deplore too much such incidents as that which occurred last Monday when R.A.F. planes dropped bombs on Canadian troops by error and killed and wounded an unknown number of them.

Everyone knows that accidents do occur in wartime as in peacetime, perhaps with even greater frequency because of the greater temperamental and physical hazards and uncertainties involved.

Nevertheless, Canadians cannot help but feel that gross inaccuracies and even gross carelessness must have been involved somewhere when 500 loads of bombs were dumped on friendly troops.

It was, to say the least, a most regrettable mistake.

New Book On Monetary Reform

"Money—Master or Servant?" Important to Thinking Canadians

A new book—"Money, Master or servant?" written by George E. Creed, M.Sc., of Toronto, is of importance to all Canadians. Its subtitle is "The Democratic Way of Full Employment," and its foreword is a quotation from as assertion by Prime Minister McKenzie King regarding the control of currency and credit. The early chapters explain the need of money, and define various standards of value, money, wealth interest, depreciation, etc.

One basic principle stated is that money is not wealth! rather wealth is what money buys. In studying money systems and money cycles the conclusion is reached that "All money should be issued against sound backing," but a further conclusion says that "the soundness of money is determined by the amount of goods and services it will buy."

The story of the Gold Standard and the evolution of banking practice is told, and the method by which the volume of money in circulation is increased or decreased is described. Quotations are made from assertions made by Mr. S. H. Logan, Mr. Graham Towers, Mr. Mariner Eccles, and from an address by Rt. Hon. Reginald McKenna is the following:

"I am afraid that the ordinary citizen will not like to be told that banks can and do create and destroy money."——"and they who control the credit of a nation direct the policy of governments and hold in the hollow of their hand the destiny of the people."

The issuing of money as a private monopoly rather than as a sovereign right of the people together with depressions, the growth of co-operatives, inflation, the public debt, and deflation are subjects dealt with, in an interesting way.

Communism, Facism and Socialism are defined and the middle way of democratic co-operation recommended.

The manufacture of money by a government owned central bank bringing all money into existence free of debt is suggested as the basic financial need, the banks to carry on the business of lending their own reserves and their depositor's money. Suggestions are given for the financing of industry and the management of purchasing power.

Full employment, wage laws, standards of living, safeguarding rights of employers, workers and the public, are also considered.

Profits, savings and investments, together with international problems are studied. In connection with latter problems the following conclusions are reached:

"(1) We do not borrow foreign money for use in our own country. If other countries accumulate our money, it is of no use to them whatever, except as they send or bring it back to us in exchange for our goods and services."

A chapter on war-financing contains many items of interest, and refers to the basic principle, set forth so clearly in the financing of this war;

"Whatever is physically possible is also financially possible."

Chapter 25, lists the basic principles, studied and ends with the general principle:

"For every creditor there must be a debtor; and for every debtor there must be a creditor."

The author referred to Mr. Henry Hallatt of Toronto as having set forth the ideas he interpreted in this book and in the last chapter set forth a summary of the Hallatt National Money Plan.

The basic reform called for by the plan, is the national control of money, with 100% coverage of national money behind all deposits. There are many in Canada working through various channels for this fundamental change in our system.

The book is well-written, its short pointed paragraphs being very easy to read. Its arguments and suggestions are plainly stated, and no involved sentences obscure the meaning. Questions at the end of each chapter help the reader to understand clearly the conclusions reached by the author.

This book makes no extravagant proposals for "sharing the wealth" but is a serious study of our economy and an attempt to present a sound plan that will work in actual practice. In conclusion it says: "Democratic national control of the money system is the key to the door of escape from economic insecurity and poverty in the midst of potential plenty. Let us use the key!

A Red Indian of considerable culture was engaged to play a part in a Hollywood film.

One day, while he was in the studio awaiting instructions, a film star approached him with the idea of showing a little consideration to "the poor savage."

"Well," he said kindly, "how do you like our city?"

"Very well, thank you," replied the Red Indian; "how do you like our country?"

Some Observations on Eating

Vagaries of Taste—What Constitutes Mystery of Sandwich?

By I. N. S. in The Ottawa Journal

This is a piece about eating. A man by the name of H. D. Renner, an Englishman, has written a very serious book called "The Origin of Food Habits", having been "professionally interested in food habits for some decades.

We're all professionally interested in food habits, but Renner's got some new slants. We don't simply eat food, he says; we taste it, smell it, breathe it, imagine it, feel it and, in some cases, hear it. When you get through with what Renner says about eating you'll either dash to a restaurant or never want to eat again. He's gone at it as though he were a cross between a statistician, a theologian, Freud, a scientist and a tired old man.

There are four tastes, he says: sweet, bitter, salt and sour. All the rest are variations. This, mind you, is law. Renner even makes up taste equations to prove it, like this: 100 ammonium chloride equals X salt plus Y tartaric acid plus Z quinine-hydrochloride. This was an equation to measure taste reactions. I'm not quite sure how it works but here is the conclusion:

"We have no adequate language to convey to each other how intense is our sensation . . . Until recently, if somebody were to sweeten his cup of tea with three lumps of sugar, we should probably conclude that he had a sweet tooth; but from these experiments it is clear that in all likelihood the three lumps do not create any more intense sensation of sweetness for that person than for someone taking only two . . . The relation between the amount of a substance and the effect of its intensity on the organs of perception is not constant between one individual and another . . . It becomes easily understandable why so many housewives all believe that they can make the best apple-pie."

Renner is, impressed with the operation of physiological fatigue in eating. We get tired of eating the same thing, he says, and on getting tired we lose our taste. This is why we eat things we like more quickly than things we don't like—because we don't want to grow tired of them. He believes that the morsel you most long for would be tiresome in the mouth after five minutes. This is why people nibble at bread with the soup or the main course—to give a change of taste.

If you want to get the longest enjoyment you should also keep your nose out of things. We taste through our nose as well as our mouth. The smell of hot soup may be interesting for a moment and an aid to the appetite, but if you plan to take a lot of soup you should hold your plate a long way from the nose and thus imbibe through only the one channel. "The plate should be further away and every mouthful coming more or less as a surprise."

And here is a tip to wine-bibbers. You'll get more and longer enjoyment if your sense of smell is not too sharp. Renner says that after much drinking we begin to exhale alcohol fumes from the lungs—about 18 times a minute. Consequently, says Renner like a man with a pointer to a blackboard, the more you put down the more it comes up and the more it comes up the more you are smelling and the more you smell the more fatigued you get with the taste and smell and the more fatigued — well, you see what he means. You are getting drunk on a two-way process. Arrange not to smell it coming up and you will be able to put more of it down below. A simple clothes-pin would probably do the trick.

Renner also has a good word for kids who are always put upon by their parents to chew their food. If you chew it long, says Renner, the taste remains in the food but your tasting machines—he calls them "buds"—lose their ability to taste. He has an impressive table of how many "round-bites" are required to masticate soft bread, apple, boiled beef or ham sausage.

The secret is moderation — in taste and smell and speed and variety. Remember Booth Tarkington's story:

"Aged 10, returning famished from skating, I found in the pantry four full-sized pumpkin pies unattended. Morally undermined, I ate all of the pirst pie. Fairly excited, I ate the second pie. Happy, I could not give up remaining so, and began the third. Enthusiasm departed; but out of a sense of duty to myself I ate all of the third pie and a section of the fourth before a creeping illness seized me.

"Aged 35, I again tried to eat pumpkin pie. Failed."

Nor ought you try to do too many things at once. Consider the mouth; it has to cough, laugh, smile, eat, swallow, smoke, drink and kiss. "When kisses are burning on the lips the quality of wine is little noticed, and just as little attention will be paid to food when the mouth of the diner is repeatedly forced to smile. So it comes about that we are frequently not aware of what we are eating unless there is some extra strong effect on the senses. We may even forget altogether that we are eating but for a conflict between breathing and eating when we choke."

Renner, it is certain, would take a dark view of the kind of eating most of us do in Ottawa restaurants these days. This is roughly the occupation of a man's senses while he eats in wartime Ottawa's fooderies; he's in a rage because he's been kept waiting longer than those three people who are at the dessert though they came in long after him; he's upset at the sight of the baby across the table who is eating butter in his fingers and he's furious at the indifferent mother sitting alongside reading a movie-mag; he's eating a piece of limp fish and washing it down with iced tea, thus giving neither flavor a chance to survive; he's concentrating partly on a book propped up against his water glass and partly on catching the waitress' attention so she'll bring the hot rolls with the fish and not with the pie; he's embarrassed at not knowing the name of the lady over there who smiled at him and he's suddenly realized the whole pat of butter has gone on the potatoes with none left for the hot rolls when and if they come; he's also—well, anyway, he's not thinking very much about food.

Should he take a sandwich to the office instead? Certainly not. "According to all the rules of the sciences governing nutrition the sandwich should never have been born. If a slice of bread is spread with some other appetizing food it is obvious to both eyes and nose what it is, and there is a definite psychological reaction. When, however, the appealing surface is covered by another slice of bread, it is a matter of guesswork to find out what the filling is. This is not so easy and often the eater does not try to guess at all but is satisfied with something easy to chew and swallow which satisfies his hunger."

So says Mr. Renner. But that statement alone surely counts him out in this country. One of the worst fates than can befall a man these days is to look under the lid of a restaurant-bought sandwich. women have fallen into a faint. Renner may think there's something good about knowing what you are about to eat, but that only follows, if what you are about to eat is good.

He admits that people have odd tastes, and points out that Australian aborigines are fond of decayed meat and climb all over the bodies of dead whale, choosing titbits. "There is no sight in the world more revolting than to see a young and gracefully formed native girl stepping out of the carcass of a putrid whale."

Well, maybe. It is, we admit, an unusual picture that would hardly lend enchantment to one's lady love. But still — has Mr. Renner ever peered under the roof of a restaurant sandwich, or ever seen a gracefully formed Ottawa girl peer under the roof of a restaurant sandwich? It would be a pathetic sight, disillusioning to both the girl and her observers.

But to get back to Mr. Renner—or shall we go to lunch?

Mrs. Longsham, giving instructions to her new servant, said: "Before removing the soup plates, Ellen, always ask each person if he or she would like any more."

"Very good, madam!"

The next day, Ellen, respectfully bowing to one of the guests, enquired: "Would the gentleman like some more soup?"

"Yes, please," was the reply.

"Well," said Ellen, "there ain't any left!"

Drive Away Wash-Day Drudgery

Don't Feel Sorry for Yourself Because Working in Suds Can Be Fun

By MARY ALICE QUAYNE

The shortage of laundry facilities these days, due to you-know-what, is inspiring a lot of sighing and groaning over the land. There are plenty of women in Canada who have always done their own washing as a matter of course, with time left over for club work, bridge and the beauty parlor. Others feel sorry for themselves at the idea of washing, forgetting that splashing around in fresh suds is really a lot of fun.

And for a healthy energetic woman, there is a fine hearty gusto about washing that she feels even if she doesn't admit it. At the worst, the rub board and the sad iron were the chief complaints and they are almost ancient history.

Washing today with good equipment is certainly nothing to mope over. In fact, it is one of those jobs a woman likes to roll up her sleeves and get at.

Few things are more exasperating than the trials that beset the inexperienced laundress. But with the proper organization and technique the job isn't the drudgery that it is proverbially claimed to be.

Before you toss the clothes into the tub be sure to remove any stains, since washing is apt to set them permanently. Spots of stubborn soil, likewise, should be removed from shirt collars and cuffs and the neckline of dresses, by a gentle scrubbing with soap jelly and a soft-bristled brush.

Hot Water

"Use plenty of hot water" is a piece of advice that sounds so simple it is apt to go unheaded. Experts have found that many women think they wash in hot water, when actually the temperature doesn't go over 120 degrees. Except for woolens, silks and rayons, this is not hot enough to get clothes bright and clean.

All washing authorities advise against doing your washing in hard water. Hard water wastes soap, since it turns the first soap into a curd, which clings to the clothes and turns them grey.

The directions for using a washing machine emphatically caution against overloading—said to be the "cardinal sin" among amateur laundresses. The housewife is warned never to attempt all-sheet or all-tablecloth loads. Large pieces must be mixed with smaller ones to vary the load and help the water currents do their work.

To speed drying on the humid day that every laundress dreads in the summer, or any other time when you have to dry indoors, one authority suggests using an electric fan. Place it on a table two or three feet away from the clothes, set at high speed and direct the flow of air between the lines. Tests with this mehtod indicates that it saves two to four hours' drying time.

Ironing Tips

Rayons and silks should be ironed on the wrong side with a not too hot iron, especially acetate rayon, which melts at a fairly low temperature. All rayons should be damp, rayon taffeta, very damp. But if colored silks are ironed while too damp, they may streak. The kind of rayon used in cotton-and-rayon table-cloths, however, will usually take a higher ironing temperature.

Linens require the hottest iron of all and should be ironed while quite wet. For a high gloss on damask table linens, iron on the wrong side first, then on the right side.

To encourage housewives who begrudge the time it takes to do all the laundry at home, the home economists at General Foods recently timed the job of doing an average weekly wash for a family of four. The washing routine—from the sorting to final rinsing—took two hours and twenty-five minutes. The ironing, which they advised doing on another day, took about seven hours altogether.

To speed the job of ironing shirts the General Foods experts recommend mixing with the starch a specially prepared waxlike product that keeps the iron from sticking and pulling the fabric, and gives a satiny finish.

With the advent of wartime fabrics and the trend towards conservation, home laundering becomes more important than ever before.

To cut your schedule to a minimum and to give fabrics longer life, here are a few hints which may be helpful to the modern homemaker.

A rule to remember is that fabrics of the same fibre should be washed together for best results. Because they hold their soil more firmly, cotton and linen require a longer time to launder than a softer fabric. They are stronger when wet, so warm water cannot harm them, and they stand up under longer and harder rubbing.

Fleecy wool is the most temperamental of all, and the softness of your favorite sweater or knitted dress depends upon careful laundering. Because it washes faster than others, wool must be dipped and not scrubbed. It should be kept under water as much as possible, as it inclines to stretch when weighted with water.

"Write sternly and demand the payment of the 4,000 silver pieces," suggested his friend.

"But, most careless listener, it was only 2,000 pieces."

"I know—but he will indignantly tell you so. That will serve as your receipt."

War Touches Scholars Lightly

Daniel Lang in the New Yorker

Among the people liberated when the Allies occupied Rome were two great scholars: George Santayana and Professor Albert Van Buren, an American Academy in Rome archaeologist. Along with a Chicago Daily News correspondent named Morgan, I looked up Santayana soon after getting here. We found him living in a single room in an institution run by the Little Company of Mary, a Catholic group. Despite the fact that he is a Spanish citizen and has been away from the United States for thirty-two years, he immediately went into this seclusion when Italy declared war on us, and he has since had nothing to do with Roman life. He seemed in good health, but he spoke recentfully of his old age, which, he said, had kept him from being involved in the war, as he would have liked to be, and had made him "callous" to it. As we talked on, it developed that he had a very special reason for being pleased with the Allies' arrival. He was telling us that he had completed two books—a second volume of his autobiography and a tract on religion entitled "God in Man"—when he suddenly interrupted himself. "Really, I am glad to see you two" he said ingenuously. Morgan and I thanked him. "But please don't be flattered", he said. "Ezra Pound was the only one who visited me when the Germans were here. I never asked him to come. I could not understand a word he said, and quite frankly, I think the man is mad."

Professor Van Buren, who has remained uninterned because several Italian scholars stood as guarantors for him with the Germans, was found in Rome by a former student, Lieutenant Colonel Henry Rowell, now the A.M.G. Education Officer for Rome. As son as Rowell entered the capital, he made straight for his old professor's office in the Academy, on the Via Gianicolo. Outside, the Italians were cheering and Allied tanks were rolling by. Inside the office, the atmosphere was still. Van Buren was there all right, bent over a book. Rowell walked up to him and tried to make his presence known with as much restraint as possible. "The professor said hello to me and he was very nice" Rowell told me afterward, "but he was reading Dessau's 'Inscriptiones Latinae Selectae'. I think I made him lose his place."

Foreign Legion in Nazi Forces

By D. Stefan Litauer in London Calling

Reports from Normandy revealed the astonishing fact that among the many prisoners taken were not only Germans but quite a number of Poles, Czechs, Croats, Russians, and even some Turks and Japs. If we add to this French, Dutch, Belgian, Norwegian and Spanish units fighting with the Germans alongside Hungarians, Romanians and Finns on the Russian front, we get a rather disturbing and distorted picture of the forces whom Hitler has marshalled against the United Nations.

These foreign elements in the Germany army are by no means homogeneous either in race or in their allegiance. There are infatuated fanatics alongside soldiers of fortune and unhappy human chattel.

Let us examine, first the fanatics, the infatuated reckless youth infected with the disease grafted by Hitler and spread afterwards by his disciples in foreign lands, Quisling in Norway, Mussert in Holland, Degrelle in Belgium, Doriot in France — to mention only the better known. Others, whom we don't know by their names, have grown during five years of war in the hermetically isolated Europe sown with seeds of Nazi depravation.

These knights-errant of a forlorn hope have been chosen by Hitler's henchman - in - chief, Himmler, to be included, not into the German Army proper, but into the special ranks of the fighting members of the National Socialist party, the notorious Waffen-SS, Hitler's political army.

The foreign volunteer, after his acceptance and recruitment, was given either German nationality or equal rights with members of the German Wehrmacht. The whole movement of organizing Foreign Legions was started under the cover of "Fight Against Bolshevism" three years ago to strengthen Germany's manpower in her war against Russia.

But the results of this international transgression will be disastrous for the Germans. In 1918 it was the Czechs in the Austrian Army who first contributed to the disintegration of the German-Austrian Forces. This time this important role will fall to the Poles.

Immediately following the landing of the Allied Forces in Normandy, the Polish Government in London issued an appeal to all Poles in the Germany Army not to shoot at their Allies, to lay down their arms and to go over to our side. This appeal has not been in vain. The other day one of my friends, who acted as war correspondent in Normandy, told me a characteristic incident. On one sector of the front, early in the morning, when the artillery barrage subsided, a group of twenty-six German soldiers, led by an N.C.O. who was waving a white handkerchief, approached the Allied line. They were all Poles. "We were thirty-five Polles in our battalion, so nine more have still to come," said the N.C.O. Three hours later the nine arrived.

2-Lt. Loreen Fitzpatrick, CWAC, of Grande Prairie who was graduated from the MacDonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que.

Northern Girl Wins Commission

GRANDE PRAIRIE.—Word has been received here that Loreen Fitzpatrick, of Grande Prairie, has received her commission as second lieutenant with the CWAC. The graduation ceremonies were held at MacDonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Quebec, on July 29. Her Royal Highness, Princess Alice, was in attendance. Col. Margaret Eaton, highest ranking CWAC officer in Canada, officially welcomed the newly-commissioned officers.

2-Lt. Fitzpatrick was born at Kleskun Hill near Grande Prairie and is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Fitzpatrick. She received her education at Montrose and St. Joseph's schools, Grande Prairie. She enlisted in the CWAC in Sept., 1942. She was a sergeant on the clerical staff in Calgary and Red Deer before going to Ste. Anne de Bellevue for training in February of this year. She is being posted to Kitchener, Ont. Her only brother, LAC. Claude Fitzpatrick, RCAF, has been in England for two years.

Seek Harvest Aid Pouce Coupe Area

POUCE COUPE — The Selective Service office in Dawson Creek is arranging to direct all agricultural workers to the district agriculturist office here in order that demands for harvest help can be met. It is believed that help for harvesting the crop will be scarce, and at a recent meeting of the assistance for farm labor committee, prices for stooking were set at 50 cents an hour. Threshing prices will remain the same as last year, nine cents for wheat, seven cents for barley and five cents for oats.

Harvesting of barley, oats and scattered fields of wheat is under way in this district. Crops on spring plowing are generally light, with summerfallow crops good in some districts. Crops north of the Peace River are generally much better than those in the southern part of the district.

The fund to provide parcels for soldiers overseas was swelled when the Red Cross Society sponsored a bingo and sale of home cooking in the dining room of the Hart hotel.

James Murdoch of the livestock branch, department of agriculture, Edmonton, is in the district inpecting registered livestock.

Glendon Branch Red Cross Meets

GLENDON — The Red Cross branch met at the home of Mrs. A. D. Munro, its president, on Thursday evening, Aug. 10. Items of general interest were two letters from the Northern Alberta headquarters, one thanking the local branch for $500 and the other calling attention to the fact that where any organization puts on a function advertising it to be in aid of the Red Cross Society it must first obtain a permit from the Branch and then turn over to the society not less than 75 per cent of the gross proceeds.

On Aug. 13 a large congregation met in the Pentacostal Tabernacle to bid farewell to the Rev. W. S. Frederick and Mrs. Frederick of St. Paul. Before the building of the Glendon Church, Mr. Frederick ministered to the congregation. The Rev. W. F. Ball of Glendon officiated as master of ceremonies. Addresses were given by W. G. Fuller and Mrs. H. A. Traxler of St. Paul and Mr. Frederick gave an outline of the Evangelistic work to which he is going.

Erich Wolgien was the first in this area to start wheat cutting. He started Aug. 2.

RULE OF THUMB

The "rule of the thumb" is a rough method of arriving at a conclusion, rather than by scientific procedure. The phrase came from using the thumb as a one-inch rule.

Draft Agenda For Dom.-Prov. Parley Is Given financial and jurisdictional aspects.

As principles underlying these practical objectives the agenda stated the goal of all governments was to establish conditions to enable the people to attain as high a standard of living and as great a degree of security as resources would permit.

Means of attaining full employment and a high national income, it was proposed, would be discussed under two headings, encouragement of private industry and public improvements.

BREAKDOWN OF PLAN

The subject of encouragement to private industry was broken down into:

1. Methods of aiding in production and cost reduction such as tax and tariff changes, research, credits, checks on inflation, subsidies;

2. Methods of promoting and stabilizing markets such as export credits, floor prices, market promotion services, government purchase, income subsidies, social service programs, implementation of international agreements on labor and regulation of business, prices and production.

Under the heading of public improvements it was proposed to discuss transportation, conservation and development of natural resources, social and welfare amenities such as hospitals and improvement of machinery for co-ordination of dominion and provincial works program such as the dominion-provincial joint planning board, proposed by Premier Drew in letters to Mr. King.

SOCIAL SECURITY VIEWS

Discussions of public welfare and social security, it was proposed, should not proceed on the basis of the social security proposals already outlined, but should deal with the implications for the provinces of the measures, such as family allowances, which the Dominion could proceed with immediately and also proposals which called for dominion-provincial agreements.

Subjects listed were:

1. Relief for able-bodied unemployed including training, rehabilitation and transfer;

2. Health insurance and disability benefits;

3. Children's allowances, the implications of the federal program;

4. Contributory old-age pensions;

5. Veterans' re-establishment;

6. Promotion of consumption and welfare, e.g., consumer subsidies, price control, nutrition;

7. Implementation of international agreements on labor standards and other social matters.

The procedure proposed was that the conference open with a plenary session at which each government might make any statement it wished. Then the conference would resolve into three main committees on each of the three main headings: Encouragement of private industry, public improvements and public welfare and security.

"CONSPICUOUS OMISSION"

Premier Stuart Garson of Manitoba on May 23 wrote that his government did not dissent from anything in the proposed agenda, but found a "conspicuous omission" in the non-inclusion of items calling for a discussion of:

(a) What are the subjects of post-war planning and reconstruction which are in the exclusive jurisdiction of the provinces;

(b) What are the respective financial capacities of the provinces to provide for and carry out these post-war programs upon these provincial subject matters.

Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta agreed in the main with the agenda, but submitted a redraft which he thought was more suitable. On procedure he urged that the specific subjects mentioned in the dominion draft as for committee consideration were so important they should be discussed in plenary session.

APPRAISE SITUATION

1. To appraise the post-war situation and determine what should be done to prepare adequately for it to the end that after the war the Canadian people will be assured the highest possible standard of living and a full measure of social and economic security;

2. To ascertain if the human and material resources and the productive capacity of Canadian industry are sufficient to make this physically possible;

3. To determine how it can be made financially possible to every Canadian citizen;

4. To decide the right and proper allocation of responsibility as between the federal and provincial governments for the implementation and administration of post-war programs and proposals.

MANY MATTERS LISTED

In his draft Mr. Manning listed a wide range of "matters requiring specific attention" under eight headings:

Rehabilitation of returned men, post-war public works, post-war social services, agriculture, post-war industry, post-war immigration, constitutional matters and finance.

Auxiliary Helps Troops Overseas

OLDS—It was reported at the August meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion that the entire list of boys overseas from this district, 353 in all, had received cigarettes during the last few months. Birthday parcels were sent out each month and many letters have been received acknowledging them. Mrs. P. O'Connell was appointed as representative to cooperate with the legion on Decoration Day.

Mrs. S. Cade entertained 28 guests at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Eleanor Christofferson. Mrs. Cade was assisted by Mrs. Ed Sande and Mrs. R. Remmie. Visitors to Edmonton in the last week were E. O. Asmundson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore and son Ronald. Mrs. Archie Boyce and her mother Mrs. E. Owens have left for a vacation at the coast. Recent visitors in Banff were Mr. and Mrs. X. P. Crispe, and Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Breigel. Mrs. A. Ragosin and sons are at their cottage at Pigeon Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Keith Elliott of Edmonton were guests this week at the home of Mrs. Grant Elliott.

One Fireman Killed Three Hurt in Blaze

TORONTO, Aug. 17—(CP)—One fireman was killed and three others injured yesterday in a two-alarm fire which swept a building on Terauley street near Yonge and Dundas in downtown Toronto. The building was occupied by the Barrett Bobby Pin Co., Ltd. Damage was $40,000. Fireman Joe Ross was fatally injured when he was struck on the head by a cement block which fell three storeys. Another fireman was injured by falling plaster and two others suffered cuts on the arms.

Sees Greater Part For Women, Youth In Tory Activities

CALGARY, Aug. 17—(CP)—Canada's youth and its women will play a greater part in activities of the Progressive Conservative party in future, P. D. McArthur, president of the National Progressive Conservative Association, predicted yesterday.

Mr. McArthur, whose home is in Howick, Que., yesterday, was conferring with party workers in Calgary. On Thursday he will visit points in central and northern Alberta. Recently he toured the Maritimes and now is on his way East after a visit to British Columbia.

John Bracken, the national leader, was expounding the party's philosophy in order to give the people time to study the Progressive Conservative platform, Mr. McArthur explained. At the same time other workers were pressing ahead with organization. He was much impressed with the progress made at all points he had visited, he said. Organization and enthusiasm in British Columbia was particularly high.

Dies Suddenly

KINGSTON, Ont., Aug. 17.—(CP)—It was learned here last night that Dr. Leo Frank Goodwin, 62, head of the industrial chemistry and chemical department at Queen's university, died suddenly yesterday at Queenland near Halifax, N.S., of a heart attack.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

THAT the race meeting which has just ended would be a success was fairly obvious right from the first day, but final results doubtless exceed even the most optimistic pre-meet predictions. The fact attendance for the 10 days averaged over 4,600 would appear to place the stamp of approval on the decision of the Exhibition Association in bringing the sport back to Edmonton.

The wonderful response must be very gratifying to the directors and in particular to President Charles E. Wilson and Lee Williams, chairman of the committee, who were largely instrumental in making the affair possible. Naturally officers of the R. James Speers corporation—especially assistant-manager Charles E. Roe—must be delighted, too.

It is no secret that such events are made possible solely by public patronage and there seems to be no reason for glossing over the fact it costs real money to put across such an undertaking. Money for purses and other expenses must be provided and furthermore, somebody has to go on the line for considerable sums and even guarantee the whole proposition right from the start. The funds, as everybody knows, are expected to come from two sources—the gate and the mutuels.

The mutuel play here of course hit all-time highs, climaxed by Wednesday's tremendous handle of $103,617. The total of $774,000 (round figures) means a daily average of $77,400. And the five per cent cut which goes to both Alberta and Federal governments means just that much less in taxes to be raised otherwise.

Such profits as may accrue to the fair association—almost entirely bereft of ordinary income for the last two years—will be welcomed too. And it is understood that in the event of the necessary permission to use the grounds being secured, a race meeting of possibly 13 days will be held during August, 1945.

C.A.H.A. ACTING WISELY

DECISION of the C.A.H.A. officials in recommending the deletion of the clause which permitted junior hockey clubs to add four players for playdowns, seems to be the only logical course.

The Memorial Cup playoffs last spring are not so far removed that fans have forgotten some of the abuses which crept in. The climax came of course in the finals at Toronto, when Oshawa already studded with the pick of the Canadian junior crop from the previous year, was still further fortified by the cream of St. Michaels' College team. Trail had just a good junior club and the result was a farce.

And by the way, of last year's Canadian Athletic Club squad from Edmonton which represented Alberta in the inter-provincial playoffs eight are in the services. Ken Cox, Jim Fleming, Bob Causgrove, Ivan Krook and Harvey Green are in the navy, while "Christy" Christenson and Bob Payne are in the RCAF and Arnold (Armie) Armstrong is in the army. And Mike Hudz, now in the army and Hal Raymond, now in the air force, were playoff replacements.

"Jug" Shoots Five Under Par

McSpaden, Nelson Easily Win In First Round Matches

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Favorites, led by the tournament hotshots, Harold McSpaden of Philadelphia and Byron Nelson, Toledo, O., crashed through to one-sided victories Wednesday in 36-hole first-round matches of the 1944 United States Professional Golfers Association golf championship.

McSpaden flashed the most sizzling golf of the round in overwhelming Bruce Coltart, Absecon, N.J., 7 and 5. The Philadelphian tossed a five-under-par 67 at Coltart to lead 4 up at the 18th. Coltart took a 71. McSpaden continued his brilliant play with a third-nine 33 against his rival's 35, where he stood 6 up.

Nelson, the No. 1 pre-tournament choice and medalist with a 36-hole qualifying total of 138, took the measure of Mike de Massey, San Jose, Calif., 5 and 4, and he finished three under par for the day.

The United States open duration champion, Craig Wood, of Mamaroneck, N.Y., breezed in with a 5-and-4 decision over Jimmy Dangelo, Muskogee, Okla., but a former national open kingpin, Tony Manero, Greenwich, Conn., had a tougher struggle.

Manero won from Clayton Aleridge, youthful Huntington Beach, Calif., player, 1 up on the 38th hole. Manero led 1 up at the 18th, but was one down at the 27th. He went back into the lead but Aleridge evened it again at the 34th. Manero's par 4 broke the deadlock on the second extra hole.

Other topnotchers coming through for first-round victories included Ed. Dudley, Colorado Springs, 7 and 6 over Steve Savel, Schenectady, N.Y., Sam Byrd, Redford, Mich., defeating W. A. Stackhouse, Sequin, Tex., 4 and 3; Tony Venca, Dayton, O., who eliminated Morrie Gravatt, Williamsport, Pa., 3 and 2; Bob Hamilton, Evansville, Ind., who conquered Gen Kunes, Philadelphia, 6 and 5, Jimmy Hines, Amsterdam, N.Y., 7 and 6 winner over Thurman Edwards, Winston Salem, N.C., and Willie Goggin, White Plains, N.Y. Goggin rolled up the biggest score in beating Purvis Ferree, Winston Salem, N.C., 8 and 7.

Garneau Tennis Tournament

Finals Are Reached In Men's Doubles

Finalists in the men's open doubles were declared and another match in the mixed doubles was played on Wednesday as the Garneau Tennis Club's annual tournament continued. The pairs of Les McManus-Harry Kinloch and S. Hirtle-Gordon Marshall successfully reached the finals and will battle it out for the men's doubles crown on Saturday.

The McManus-Kinloch combination eliminated Howard Hall and John McInnis 6-2, 6-8, 6-2, 6-3 in a best three out of five set semi-final last night in a real close match.

Howard Hall had a very steady forehand and McInnis dished up some powerful serves, but the more experienced pair managed to win three sets of four played to advance.

The Hirtle-Marshall pair won their semi-final game against Ed Hall and Paul Drouin 5-7, 6-2, 6-2, 6-3. This match was full of action and the winners gave out with some good rallies to gain the margin of victory.

Semi-finals in the ladies' singles and the men's singles and the final of the ladies' doubles are being played today. The Mackay sisters, Lola and Norma, defending champions of the ladies' doubles honors meet Shellia Toshach and Peggy Molloy for the title in a match starting at 6:30 o'clock.

Following are Wednesday's results and today's draw:

WEDNESDAY'S RESULTS

Mixed open doubles—Thorburn-L. Mackay defeated Krause-I. Hooper 6-4, 6-3.

Men's open doubles (semi-final)—L. McManus-H. Kinlock defeated H. Hall-J. McInnis 6-2, 6-8, 6-2, 6-3; S. Hirtle-G. Marshall defeated E. Hall-Paul Drouin 5-7, 6-2, 6-2, 6-3.

THURSDAY'S DRAW

5:30—Ladies' open singles (semi-final) D. Tanney vs Norma Mackay.

6:30—Mixed open doubles: L. Calhoun-B. Reynolds vs S. Hirtle-D. Tanney.

6:30—Ladies' open doubles (final): L. Mackay-N. Mackay vs S. Toshach-P. Molloy.

6:30—Men's open singles (semi-finals): H. Kinloch vs E. Hall; Les McManus vs Dr. King.

7 o'clock—Ladies' open singles (semi-final): I. Hooper vs D. Walton.

Boss' Appetite Surprises Jack

AFTER I weighed in for my second fight with Bob Montgomery in Madison Square Garden last November 19, little Chick Wergeles, my co-manager, took me to dinner. Chick ordered two big steaks, kind of rare. After we ate them he told me to order dessert.

"You're fightin' tonight," Chick said, "so you can have a dish of ice cream." Then he turned to the waiter. "Don't bring him nothin' fancy, just plain vanilla ice cream."

"Yes, sir," said the waiter, "and what are you having, sir?"

My eyes popped out when Chick replied:

"Bring me a double order of ice cream and two hunks of apple pie—I ain't fightin'."

Calgary Girl Wins In RCAF Meet

PAULSON, Man., Aug. 17.—(CP)—Cpl. Diane Birks of Calgary compiled 10 points in the annual track and field meet at No. 7 bombing and gunnery school (RCAF) here Tuesday. She won the 60-yard dash in 8.4 seconds and the 75 in 10.6 seconds.

Cpl. Elaine Heavenor of Powder River, B.C., won the high jump, clearing four feet.

Time for Mile Three-Eighths Cut Three One-Fifth Seconds; All-Time High for Mutuals

Morrison's Some Do Sets New Track Mark

Clips Over 3 Seconds Off Record

WHEN Some Do, consistent performer from T. H. Morrison's Calgary stable won the Au Revoir Handicap, feature race of Wednesday's final card of the 10-day meeting at the Edmonton Exhibition grounds in 2 minutes, 24 seconds, he smashed the former track record for the mile and three-eighths by 3 1-5 seconds.

The old mark of 2:27 1-5 was made by Craig Token on August 12, 1939, and was equalled by Sweet Pal on August 10, 1940. Some Do's performance marked the third time that a track record had been broken during the meeting. On Monday, August 7, K. Cookie lowered the time for the 6½ furlongs of 1:21 3-5 made on July 17, 1931, to 1:21 2-5, and on Tuesday evening of this week, Amsterson cut it down to 1:20 4-5.

Attendance for the closing day of the most successful race meeting ever held in Edmonton was 6,000 and mutuel figures soared to a new high of $103,617. The quinella pool alone amounted to $10,108, close to $1,000 above last Saturday's record total. The daily double pool of $6,320 was $320 under Saturday's figure.

There were 1,565 tickets held on the winning quinella combination of Vain Cholly to Camp Flight and each was worth only $5.35, lowest for the 10 days. The Cave Boy to Dutch Defender daily double paid $40.95, with 128 tickets participating.

Gay Guy, favorite in the betting for the first half of the double, finished third behind Cave Boy and Streamlight. Cave Boy ran fourth during the early part of the race, but came to the outside for the stretch run, first overtaking Gay Guy and then beating the front-running Streamlight by a head.

It was Dutch Defender all the way in the second half of the double. Ridden by Jockey E. Arnold, E. H. Howe's entry came out of the Cowell first and stayed there for the entire race, with H. P. Streeter's Coon Dog in second place. Starnaut came from sixth to capture the show money.

Running second during the early part of the race, Lev's Dust moved up at the three-quarter mark and won by over two lengths over Free Exchange. Annoyed out-ran Great Leader in the stretch to take third place.

Rural Parade was always in front in the fourth race with Some Yank the only serious challenger. Valedah Craig maintained third position, but could not catch the Yank in the stretch despite a gallant effort.

Fourth in the public fancy, so far as betting was concerned, Some Do allowed Bombshell to set the pace during the featured fifth event, longest race of the meet. Jockey Marskell made his move at the three-quarter mark and came fast entering the stretch. Single Claim proved Some Do's most serious challenge in the end, having come from fifth with a great burst of speed, only to lose by less than a length. Youville also finished gamely, coming from sixth place to claim the show money from Bombshell.

Pagan Cort, second favorite in the betting to take the sixth race was unable to hold the lead, first giving way to Pussy Boots and then to All Sweep, the favorite. Pagan Queen, winner of two races earlier in the meet was never a factor in the race and trailed the field for long time, leaving the impression she was in the race just for workout.

Cover Crop at 11 to 1 on the board, showed most of the early speed in the quinella with the favorite, Camp Flight in second position, and second choice Vain Cholly third. The two favorites—first Camp Flight and then Vain Cholly—overtook Cover Crop in a driving stretch finish, but Jockey Godley got Cholly to the wire just ahead of Braddish's mount.

Jockey Braddish, finished in the money six times during the day, two wins and three seconds being included in the list.

Harness Racing Drivers Suspended

SARATOGA SPRINGS, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Five drivers accused of holding their horses in the second race at the Saratoga Raceway last Friday were suspended for periods ranging from 10 to 30 days, following hearings Wednesday by the New York State Harness Racing commission.

Henry Myott and Jack Brown were suspended for 30 days, from Aug. 11 to Sept. 11. Frank Safford and Ray Reeves were suspended 14 days until Aug. 25, and Milton Van Auken 10 days until Aug. 21. Frank Wiswall, secretary of the New York State Harness Racing Commission, said evidence indicated the drivers had held their horses to allow Northern Lad to win the race. Northern Lad paid $6.70.

Enlisted Men Defeated

Dawson Creek Triumphs 2-1 In Fastball Series Opener

Dawson Creek took the jump on the U.S. Enlisted Men in the opening series of the American fastball tournament Wednesday night when they defeated the local representatives 2-1 in the best of three playoff at Kingsway Park. The series was scheduled to resume at 2:30 this afternoon and continue at 6:30 if necessary. If the visitors win this afternoon they will meet Prince Rupert in the night game.

Both clubs received good pitching, but Earl Weber of the Dawson Creek squad held a slight edge over August Wullenweber in chucking a four-hitter to gain the victory. Weber struck out eight and only issued two passes in the seven innings.

Wullenweber hurled a six-hit performance against the visitors, but lost a close decision. He fanned five and only walked one in his effort.

Behind 2-1 in the last of the seventh with none out, the Enlisted Men threatened when they had the tying run on first. A neat double-play involving Ted Slack and John Richardson ended this threat however, and almost clinched the game for them. The next batter reached first on an error, but pinch-hitter Biesen grounded out pitcher to first and the game was over.

Dawson Creek's two runs came in the first and third innings and were scored by Richardson and Weber. Weber was driven in by a two-bagger by Richardson for what proved to be the winning marker.

Elie Magovich, who played right field last was expected to start this afternoon's game. Lieut. Carl C. McEwen of Oklahoma, special service officer at Dawson Creek made the trip with Sgt. Walt. Ochinco's fastballers.

CANADIAN SPORTSHOTS

By SYD THOMAS

Syd Thomas

TORONTO, Aug. 17—(CP)—Compared with the United States, Canada has been considerably behind the times as far as high school athletics are concerned. Since the war especially, organized inter-school sport programs have become scarcer than ever in Canada, with transportation problems and enlistments of the upper class athletics taking their toll.

Sport is big business in U.S. high schools, with well-equipped gyms and trained physical directors, whereas in Canada things are taken more casually. Except for a few of the larger cities where full-scale programs can be readily organized, high school sport always has been on a haphazard scale. Not that there aren't inter-city leagues, and provincial championships competed for, but as far as full-fledged physical programs are concerned, it's a sad case.

With the emphasis now being laid on national physical fitness and organized athletics, it would seem that high schools would be a good place to start. After all, the high school youngsters will provide a good groundwork fos that future happy physical state that is being given such prominence.

It's appalling!

While on the subject of national physical fitness, Maj. Ian Eisenhardt, national director, has a word of cheer and a ray of hope for the middle-aged and others not especially inclined to athletics who were afraid they might be pushed into violent programs of chinnings and push-ups. The Major doesn't approve of sudden, violent physical purges of that nature. In an address at Montreal he told the story of a fortyish but fit lad of his acquaintance. Asked if he took much exercise to keep in trim, he explained the secret of his success thus: "I get all the exercise I need acting as pallbearer at the funerals of my friends who take too much exercise."

Incidentally:

There is no little heated discussion around Toronto over the action of the services forming their own football league this fall. When Toronto Navy dropped out of the Ontario Rugby Football Union's five-team loop, the other clubs didn't take to it too kindly, but they'll carry on just the same . . . Vancouver baseball fans will have a stake in the new frigate H.M.C.S. Capilano—named after a storied river, chief community in coast history. Proceeds of an exhibition game at Capilano Stadium will be turned over to the ship's comforts fund.

Four-Way Fight For Playoff Spot

TORONTO, Aug. 17.—(CP)—The four-way fight for the third and fourth International League playoff spots between the Buffalo Bisons, Jersey City Giants, Montreal Royals and the Toronto Maple Leafs has momentarily taken the spotlight off the sensational climb of the Newark Bears from the cellar to second place, one-half game off the pace of the Baltimore Orioles. The Bears, mired in eighth place early in July, have chalked up 46 victories in their last 59 games in their bid for pennant honors.

City Swimming Championships Set for Friday

The city swimming championships, which will be featured by the junior girls' and boys' half-mile events, are being held on Friday night commencing at 7:30 o'clock at the South Side pool. There will be nine city trophies competed for in addition to competitions for boys and girls from nine years of age to 13.

Renewed rivalry will take place in both the half-mile races. Doug Swaile, who won the provincial championship for the distance by defeating defending champion Jim Milne in the Wrigley championships will be trying to take the city event too. Jim Milne and Stewart Morrish, who also competed in the provincial affair will be battling with Doug on Friday.

Daria Shoemaker, who won the provincial girls' half mile, will also be trying for the city title. Marie Lee and Doris Elliot, two girls who supplied tough opposition to Dana in the recent meet will attempt to upset her tomorrow.

Officials for the meet will be: timers—H. C. Graham, A. P. Mathuen and Byron Morrison; judges—E. S. Cooper, H. Bladon, George Balpy; starter—J. V. Edwards; official recorder—Dorothy Edwards.

Following are the city championship events that will be competed for:

Junior boys' half mile, Carleton cup; junior girls' half mile, Barr cup; boys under 15 quarter mile, North West Breweries cup; girls under 15, quarter mile, Snowflake cup; junior girls' 100 yards free style, La Fleche cup; junior boys' 100 yards, N.A.D.P. cup; ladies' 220, Jackson cup; junior boys' diving, Young cup; men's open 50 yards free style, E.C.D. cup.

CAHA Heads Favor Changing Rule Re Juniors

TORONTO, Aug. 17—(CP)—Officers of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association met here last night and unanimously decided to recommend to the executive that the clause in the association's rules which allows junior branch champions to strengthen with four players at the end of the season be deleted.

If this recommendation is approved by the executive, the nine branch presidents, branch junior champions will not be allowed to add four players from other clubs to their roster as they enter the inter-branch playdowns leading to the Memorial Cup, President Frank Sargeant of Port Arthur explained.

Mr. Sargeant said he and other association officers will meet National Hockey League directors today to discuss rules and NHL-CAHA relations.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Detroit's revivified Tigers opened Wednesday what seems the "crucial week" of their season—a week of encounters with the Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees that should tab the bengals definitely as pennant challengers or also rans.

The Tigers, victors in 12 of their last 14 games, are in the midst of a bitter battle with Boston and New York from the challengers' role, after climbing from sixth place in the American League standing since July 31.

Neither the Red Sox nor the Yanks have been hitting such a recent clip as Steve O'Neill's Detroiters. The Sox won eight and lost six in their last 14 engagements; and the Yanks took eight and dropped six. But, as the Tigers opened a four-game series at Boston yesterday, the Sox had an advantage in the standing. Joe Cronin's lads held second place by a margin of one and a half games over the third rung invaders. And the fourth place Yanks were only a half-game behind Detroit.

WAKEFIELD HELPED

IF THE Tigers—blessed with excellent pitching and fair hitting—can better than break even against the Red Sox and Yanks, and finish their last eastern trip in second place, the achievement is bound to have a stimulating effect upon the club. Moreover, it would place the Bengals in position to take advantage if the leading St. Louis Browns happened to falter from their currently steady pace. At present, the Browns have a commanding lead of six and a half games over runner-up Boston.

The return of dangerous Dick Wakefield to Detroit's outer other garden, after his release from the army, pepped up the club's hitting. They now rank fourth in club batting, and fifth in fielding. Improved hitting, coupled with fine pitching from Hal Newhoser and Dizzy Trout—who lead the majors in victories with 19 each—fuelled the autocity outfit during its recent drive.

This campaign was featured by a nine-game winning streak, which was snapped during the Tigers' latest series at Philadelphia. They broke even with the A's, each club winning two games. Detroit was pressed mightily to beat the A's in their concluding contest Tuesday. They emerged with a 3-2 victory after 11 innings.

RED SOX STILL TOUGH

THE Tigers will need sharp claws against Boston, which has shown no signs of cracking, despite the loss of their ace pitcher Tex Hughson to the army last week. The Sox won four and lost three since his departure. Joe Cronin's array of batsmen still are the most dangerous in the league. Three of them are among the circuit's five leading hitters—Bobby Doerr, .330; Pete Fox, .319; and Bob Johnson, .307.

Joe McCarthy's Yankees are still though, too—still bellowing that they're not out of the pennant fight, by any means. The Tigers' four-game series at New York opens with a double-header Sunday. The Yanks are feeling pretty good after taking three of four from Chicago's White Sox. The McCarthy men teed off yesterday against fifth-place Cleveland, for four contests that should sharpen them for Detroit.

It should be a significant and memorable week for the Detroit athletes as they tangle with two clubs, both of which are singing lustily: "Hold that Tiger".

NBA President Proposes Plan Protect Boxers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Abe J. Greene, president of the National Boxing Association, proposed Wednesday a plan of periodical psychiatric and medical examinations to keep "punch drunk and antiquated" fighters from beating themselves to death or mental breakdown on the comeback trail.

Asserting in a letter to all NBA commission that "the manager's avarice" always has been a big factor in putting such men back into the ring, Greene urged that managers be made responsible for reporting any signs of mental or physical deterioration to the examining boards which would be set up as adjuncts to boxing commissions.

"And if it isn't the regular manager," he wrote, "then it's the second-hand fellow who steps in after the first one has decided the fighter has had enough and washes his hands of him.

"Managers better than anyone else know when a fighter is beginning to slip physically—or even more important, mentally," Greene asserted.

The NBA head said the problem of unfit fighters is aggravated "in these lush days of wartime big gates" and of scarce talent.

Often it is difficult for a commissioner to determine in a routine pre-fight examination whether a boxer is in shape to go, Greene said, illustrating with the case of Lem Franklin, killed in a New Jersey bout.

Death was attributed to a blow on the chin that "carried to his damaged brain centre," Greene said, declaring that such conditions can be diagnosed "only through a thorough medical examination such as cannot be administered in a routine boxing cheek."

Dodgers End Losing Streak

Cardinals Set Modern Mark By Winning 80th on Aug. 16

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 17.—(AP)—St. Louis Cardinals set a modern league record last night by winning their 80th game of the season on the earliest date on record, defeating New York Giants 5-0.

The previous record was set by Brooklyn in 1942 when they posted victory No. 80 on Aug. 19.

Rookie Fred Schmidt set the Giants down without a hit from the third to the seventh inning as he registered his fourth triumph against one defeat.

BROOKLYN DOWNS REDS 3-1

CINCINNATI, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Brooklyn Dodgers Wednesday ended a five-game losing streak, defeating Cincinnati Reds 3-1. The defeat dropped the Reds into third place in the National League and snapped their winning skein of seven straight.

Curt Davis went the route for the Dodgers and scattered 11 hits, three coming in the fourth for the Reds' tally. Ed Heusser opposed Davis and was the losing pitcher, his first defeat by the Dodgers after having beaten them four times.

NICHOLSON HITS 27th HOMER

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Two big innings, one including Bill Nicholson's 27th homer, gave the Cubs an 11-3 National League victory over Boston Braves in the opening game of their series Wednesday. The bases were loaded when Nicholson connected.

With their first five batters reaching base safely, the Chicagoans fell on Nate Andrews for four runs in the first inning and added six more off Woody Rich in the third, when Nicholson hit his round-tripper that boosted his runs-batted-in total to 88.

American League

BOSTON, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Rex Cecil's debut as a starting major league pitcher was spoiled Wednesday by the big bat of Rudy York, Detroit first baseman, as the Tigers defeated the Red Sox 4-2.

The victory put the Tigers but one-half game behind the second place Sox in the American League.

York stroked a home run into the bleachers in dead centre field, 410 feet from home plate, with two Tigers aboard in the seventh inning. Only other player to hit a ball there this season has been Bob Johnson.

Cecil, who pitched four scoreless innings Sunday in relief, pitched well except for the one ball he made too good for York. He gave up but five hits and struck out four batters.

ROOKIE LOPAT TAKES SIXTH

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Eddie Lopat, Chicago rookie southpaw, pitched seven-hit ball last night to notch up his sixth victory of the American League season and give the White Sox a 7-2 decision over Washington Senators.

The Sox nicked Johnny Niggeling, the Senators' veteran hurler, for four hits and added five more off Bill Lefebvre in a four-run uprising in the ninth after Niggeling gave way to a pinch hitter.

HOMER IN 9TH WINS GAME

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Bud Metheny's 13th homer of the American League season, with two mates aboard in the last of the ninth inning, Wednesday gave New York Yankees an 11-8 victory over Cleveland Indians in a free-hitting affair. The two teams made 35 hits between them, 19 by the Yankees, and used four pitchers apiece.

Jim Turner, last of the New York pitchers, was the winner. Besides Metheny, Nick Etten of the Yankees and Mickey Rocco and Roy Cullenbine of the Indians hit home runs.

The Hitler Gang
JOHN FARROW · B. G. DeSYLVA

Topical as Today's Headlines!

"Paramount has filmed the amazing and authentic account of the rise to power of 'The Hitler Gang'

"It presents them as they truly are, and as they appear to one another.

"The picture reveals Hitler as the groveling stool-pigeon he used to be, Goering as the vicious dope fiend he was, and takes you deep into the past of Goebbels, Hess and Himmler.

"It is authentic because only official, secret sources were used to obtain these hidden facts. Seven months were spent on research, and 30,000 feet of captured German film was scanned to get to the heart of these personal histories.

"The 128 speaking roles were filled by actors chosen for their acting ability and their remarkable resemblances to Hitler, Goebbels, Goering and the rest.

"This, for the first time then, is the factual and unvarnished story of 'The Hitler Gang'."

Churchill Watches Allied Units Land On French Coast

ROME, Aug. 17—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill visited Corsica and then went by destroyer to watch landing operations on the French coast, Allied headquarters announced last night.

With the Prime Minister as guests on the warship were Robert P. Patterson, United States under-secretary of war, and Lt. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, commander of the American Army Services of Supply.

"Prime Minister Churchill was greatly impressed by the clockwork precision of the operation," the headquarters announcement said.

Second Measles Death Reported

CHURCHILL, Man., Aug. 17.—(CP)—Caroline Gray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gray, stricken during a measles epidemic here, died Tuesday, bringing the death toll to two. Maj. Noel Rawson, Canadian army doctor, scheduled to leave Churchill on the Nascopic supply ship last week-end, is attending patients. Number of persons stricken was not known.

Police Check on Poppy Growers

WINNIPEG, Aug. 17. — (CP) — Royal Canadian Mounted Police officials said here last night there has been no recent order to stop growing of poppies in the Winnipeg area but RCMP officers were enforcing an earlier amendment to the Opium and Narcotics Drugs Act.

The officials said the act had been amended several years ago making possession of opium-producing poppies illegal.

They added that about a year ago several lots of the flowers were noted in this area and their owners were warned they would have to be destroyed. RCMP officers were still seeing this was being done.

The Winnipeg Tribune said yesterday a ruling which originated with an official of the department of pensions and national health bans growing of "all poppies, irrespective of variety."

"All poppies, irrespective of variety, possess narcotic content and must be destroyed," the paper said.

The paper said that about 10 days ago Royal Canadian Mounted Police "passed the word around that poppies must go and police are warning gardeners and cooks."

SPEND A WEEK-END

In The Mountains

Mountain lakes are thrilling to park visitors.

JASPER

Get away from the hustle of city life and spend a week-end at Jasper. It's a grand way to relax . . . and in forty-eight fun-packed hours, you can have the time of your life.

Jasper is ready to accommodate week-end visitors and you can be sure of a warm welcome. Don't waste your week-ends, spend them to the best advantage, in Jasper.

Forget Tired Bodies and Weary Minds . . .

These days more than ever, its wise to guard your physical and mental health, and in Jasper's invigorating air, you will find the rest and relaxation that you need. Store up your next winter's energy now . . . week-end at Jasper, for a healthy mind and body.

Tennis . . . Fishing

Tennis enthusiasts will find good courts awaiting their arrival, at the popular Jasper Club. And experts say that the fishing this year is the best in Jasper's history. Streams, rivers and lakes have been restocked all through the season, assuring a successful catch even for the amateur.

RIDING . . . CLIMBING . . . HIKING

Riding is a new delight at Jasper, over charming bridle paths and through virgin forests. Mountain climbing is fast becoming one of the most popular of sports, and colorful Swiss guides will take you in hand. Hiking through the ever-changing panorama of Jasper's beauty, is a thrill you will not soon forget.

How to Reach Jasper

Two trains leave Edmonton every morning, arriving in Jasper just after lunch. Two trains leave Jasper each afternoon, arriving in Edmonton in the early morning. The roads are in excellent condition for motorists.

Accommodation

Choose from three hotels and four bungalow camps whichever you prefer. Hotels feature pleasant rooms, and good service . . . combined with a gay, informal atmosphere. If you prefer complete privacy, investigate the bungalow camp accommodation.

After a short climb you can relax with a view of the ramparts to hold you spellbound.

"Les" Pugsby heading for his favorite bank; Irving Solloway up and about at an early hour; Eric Lansdowne actively engaged in pleasing people as usual; Emily Johnson leaving the McLeod Building; June McLean walking along Jasper avenue; Joe Cook looking around for a golfing partner; Bobbie Collins smiling amiably at the public in general.

Arrest 4 Members Of Armed Forces

Four members of the armed forces were placed under arrest and handed to military authorities Wednesday, after they had started fires in a number of waste paper boxes along Jasper avenue, according to city police.

City firemen responded to an alarm at 102 street and Jasper about 2:50 a.m., to find the waste paper box at that point blazing. Before the flames had been dealt with, the other fires were started, at 101 street and Jasper avenue.

The men, said to have "felt mischievous", will be charged with wilful damage.

ALBERTA MOTOR ASSOCIATION

Children Are Not "Traffic-Wise"

Motorists should remember that most children are always intently conscious of what they are doing, whether it is crossing the road or playing ball. Watching traffic is a secondary consideration. It's a safe precaution to travel very slowly where children are crossing the street or playing alongside the sidewalk.

ROAD REPORTS

Cloudy at Lac la Biche, Lloydminster, Onoway, Edson, St. Paul, Hardisty and Stettler.

Roads reported good in most parts of the province. Roads in the northern part reported good with the exception of Fairview, Spirit River and Grande Prairie, which are reported greasy.

Detours on the Calgary highway still in use.

Seeking Arena For Hockey in Coming Winter

Representations have been made to national defence headquarters at Ottawa seeking permission to use the arena at the exhibition grounds for hockey this winter, it was learned at the Civic Block Thursday.

It is understood that Dr. W. G. Hardy, University of Alberta, and president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, is interesting himself in the acquisition of the arena for hockey purposes.

Ald. Fred J. Mitchell at a recent city council meeting asked if any steps were being taken to obtain the use of the arena for hockey. Questioned on Thursday Mayor John W. Fry stated that no official action was being taken by the commissioners pending the outcome of representations now being by organizations interested in the promotion of amateur hockey.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

Do you think it would be a good idea if returned service personnel were allowed 10 per cent off by all retail houses, on purchases made which would be applicable on their rehabilitation, provided they could present proper discharge papers?

THE ANSWER

RITA CAIRNELL, sales clerk: Some arrangement like that should be made. I suppose there would be a lot of abuse of this type of scheme but something should be done. It is about time this was taken up seriously.

* * *

H. L. DUNN, butcher: That is a sound idea but there is a lot of work has to be done to work out the details. I would be more than pleased to help the service men and women anyway I can but most of the ideas brought forward are only 'half-baked'.

* * *

TED JAMIESON, store proprietor: I believe there was something like this brought forward after the last war but so many people didn't co-operate that it wasn't any good. I believe if everyone is approached and no one left out no one will mind doing this. It should certainly be done. I would like to see the idea followed out and will do everything I can to help support it.

Edmonton Officer Wounded Overseas

Lt. H. J. S. Pearson, Calgary Highlanders, son of Lt.-Col. H. E. Pearson, MC, officer commanding the 2nd (Reserve) Battalion Edmonton Fusiliers, and Mrs. Pearson of 12507 Stony Plain road, was wounded in Normandy on July 25, while on duty with his regiment, according to information received here. Born here, he attended city schools. Later he attended Trinity College School, Port Hope, Ont., and then the Royal Military College at Kingston, Ont. On graduation from the RMC in 1942 he joined the Canadian Army.

Promoted

PO. David R. Centera, DFM, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Centera, 9266 110A avenue, who has been commissioned overseas, according to word reaching here on Thursday. He enlisted in the RCAF on his 18th birthday and has taken part in many bombing missions. An air-gunner, he completed his tour of operations in April, and was awarded the Distinguished Flying Medal last May. He is detached from the RCAF for duty with the RAF.

Haines Highway Being Used For Limited Traffic

The Haines Military Road, running 45 miles from Haines, Alaska, to a point 105 miles northwest of Whitehorse in Yukon Territory, is not being kept open as an artery of traffic as it was constructed to relieve pressure on the White Pass and Yukon Railway in the construction days when much heavy equipment was being taken into the Northwest via boat to Skagway and then over the railway to Whitehorse.

This announcement was made Thursday by headquarters Northwest Service Command.

Heavy slides and difficult snow conditions last winter made it impractical to keep the Haines road open in view of the lessening amount of material being moved into the Northwest as construction projects were completed and the danger from Japanese invasion was lessened.

The road is now being used to exacuate heavy equipment used in its construction, and that of the northern half of the Alaska Highway but is not open to any other traffic.

Driver Arrested After Accident

Frederick Christon, Northern block, 90 street and Jasper avenue, was placed under arrest by city police and charged with dangerous driving, after the taxi-bus he was operating between 97 and 98 streets on 101A avenue, about 4:50 p.m. Wednesday, struck and injured Mah Kee Sing, manager of the Arrow cafe, who was taken to the Royal Alexandra hospital.

The accident occurred, Christon told police, when he swerved to avoid colliding with a car drawing away from the curb. In so doing, he struck Mah Kee Sing, knocking him to the pavement. He stated he had not seen the pedestrian previous to the accident.

Plea was reserved when Christon appeared before Magistrate A. I. Millar, K.C., Thursday morning, and the case was adjourned for one week.

It was intimated by C. G. Purvis, K.C., crown prosecutor, that "minor charges may be laid."

Conversion of City Building Is Proceeding

Formal possession of the children's shelter was taken by the city on Wednesday, and work on the converting the building into suites is progressing as rapidly as the manpower and material situation will permit, a civic official stated Thursday. The building had been leased to the United States Army.

Mayor John W. Fry stated that announcement would be made soon of the date on which the alterations would be completed and occupancy given to tenants.

He said that consideration of plans for the taking over some of the huts at U.S.A. Camp 550 was held in abeyance pending the arrival here of Arthur Arnold, representative of the National Housing Administration.

Mr. Arnold will establish an office here, and also will be responsible for the organizing and conversion of Camp 550 into living accommodation units. He will make a survey of other available accommodation here, according to advices received by civic authorities.

Before the Magistrate

Ole Peterson was found guilty Thursday morning of assaulting Adeline Graham, and causing her actual bodily harm. He was sentenced by Magistrate A. I. Millar, K.C., to three months' imprisonment.

The complainant told of being thrown on the bed by the accused, who then hit her on the face, dragged her outside and kicked her in the eye. She lost consciousness and was taken by police to a city hospital, where she was found to have received cuts and bruises, scratches and abrasions, and an injured eye.

Peterson denied laying a hand on the woman, and said he hadn't touched her "since the last time," which, the court understood, meant the last time he appeared in court charged with a similar offense. He denied having been pulled away from the complainant by another man and being thrown into a potato patch, but he did acknowledge previous convictions dating back to 1941 for assault and assault occasioning actual bodily harm.

Mrs. Angeline Ferguson, stopped by a police officer as she rode her bicycle along the sidewalk, admitted getting a tag which she disregarded. She was then sent a letter, later a summons, but both of these were not given her attention. She appeared after receiving a "personal service" summons. The penalty was $1 and costs or seven days.

Bob Louis pleaded guilty to illegal sale of liquor and was fined $300 or three months.

* * *

Mrs. Caroline Lutz, through representation, pleaded guilty to wilful damage and was fined $10 together with damage costs of $20, or 30 days' imprisonment.

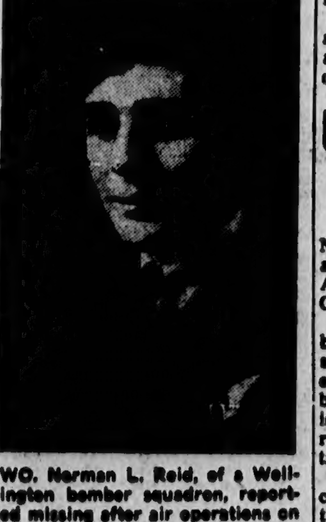
Money Missing

Between $30 and $40 was stolen from his wallet while he was sleeping in a room at the New Star rooms, 96 street and Jasper avenue, Gus M. Peterson, 10349 96 street, reported to police on Wednesday. After searching the premises, he found the empty wallet in the washroom.

Back With Crew



WO. Norman L. Reid, of a Wellington bomber squadron, reported missing after air operations on May 8, who rejoined his crew on Aug. 11, according to a wire received Wednesday night by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reid, of 11230 101 street.

Gets Good Bag

WO Walter Kirkwood, RCAF, 21-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Kirkwood, 10747 104 street, who, in the air war over Normandy, has scored three individual kills with his Mosquito in 13 days. He demonstrated just how a powerful twin-engined JU88 can be turned into a glider with two quick bursts of gun-fire when he sent one of these machines crashing down near Caen. His navigator claims he can "shoot like Daniel Boone." Born at Vegreville he received his education there and at Bonnyville. He cut short his education three years ago to enlist, and he has been overseas for two years.

Soldiers Reach Alberta Fields For Harvesting

First group of farm duty soldiers to arrive in Alberta for harvest work are employed in the south-eastern part of the province, according to Robert M. Putnam, director of extension, department of agriculture.

Two hundred soldiers are in the group, all of them from Eastern Canada. They were sent to Suffield, northwest of Medicine Hat, and are being distributed to surrounding districts in groups of 15 and 20. Distribution is being handled by a representative of MD 13, Calgary, and district agriculturists.

THE NAVY'S HERE

Mr. Putnam said farmers in the vicinity of Edmonton and Calgary will receive naval assistance this year. It is planned to release experienced navy men from stations in the two cities, to help harvesting in nearby districts.

It was estimated earlier in the month that at least 550 soldiers would be released from military duties to assist gathering Alberta's harvest this year. In addition, harvest excursions from the east are planned, under arrangements being made by National Selective Service and Dominion-provincial farm labor boards.

Police Destroy Beds of Poppies

A constant check is being made by Edmonton and district RCMP on "poppy beds" in Northern Alberta. A few have been destroyed in which opium-producing poppies were being grown, it was revealed Thursday.

Commenting on a story which appeared Wednesday in a Winnipeg newspaper, which stated the police were checking and destroying poppy beds in which opium-producing flowers were being grown, a RCMP officer said Thursday, the same thing is being done in this area. The Winnipeg paper also stated "all poppies are banned."

Edmonton and district RCMP are following the rules of the drug act, which bans only the growing of opium-producing poppies.

Use Totem Pole As Air Insignia

The totem pole, originated by the North American Indians, has been adopted as the insignia for the Alaskan Division, Air Transport Command, USAAF.

The colorful insignia soon will be transferred from the artist's sketch to both sides of the nose of each plane in the division. In the background of the totem pole there is a circle, marked with stars, a range of peaked mountains, and a triangle.

The triangle indicates the close co-operation between the three nations primarily interested in the work being accomplished by the division, Russia, Canada and the United States.

The circle and blue field with gold-orange stars represent the Alaskan flag, with its North Star and Big Dipper.

The insignia was designed by Lt.-Col. Henry H. Waller, divisional chief of staff, and Sgt. Bob Wilhelm, art editor for the division's publication, North Star. It is not known whether or not the new insignia will replace the present shoulder patch on the uniforms.

Phones Revenue Reveals Increase

Revenue from the city telephone department for the period Jan. 1 to Aug. 14—amounted to $632,909.30, compared with $585,931.64 for the same period of 1943, an increase of $46,978.66, according to a report filed Thursday with the city commissioners by Robert Christie, superintendent of the system.

City Considers Starting New Owl Bus Line

Operation of an "owl bus service" on the run from Jasper avenue and McDougall hill, to 82 avenue and 104 street, South Side, is being considered by the city commissioners, it was disclosed Thursday.

Many complaints have been made that since the change in the bus line route extending the terminal on the South Side to 104 street many night workers have considerable distances to walk. This is occasioned by the fact that white line and other street car services now wye at the 104 street and 82 avenue location.

A survey of the possible patronage for the owl bus service is being made, and if the result of that survey justifies it an application will be made to the Dominion transit controller for permission to operate the proposed service.

A decree nisi of divorce was granted in supreme court Thursday by Chief Justice W. C. Ives to Albert Myles, Edmonton, from Lucie Myles, now resident at Vancouver. The parties were married at Brule in January, 1924.

Alexander J. Cook, associate professor in the University of Alberta, is one of the 41 faculty members from 19 different colleges and universities throughout the country participating in the annual workshop in general education being held on the University of Chicago campus for four weeks during August, Ralph Ogan, director of the workshop, announced today.

In supreme court chambers on Thursday Chief Justice W. C. Ives issued two orders for possession of dwellings when parties to the application intimated that the tenants had consented to move by a stipulated date. One order for possession on July 31 was made in another application. Several applications were adjourned until later specified dates.

Dr. Glen Shortliffe of Queen's University, will speak on the topic France and the New Europe in Convocation hall, Arts building, University of Alberta, on Thursday evening. Dr. Shortliffe, who is visiting lecturer at the University summer school, is particularly well qualified to speak on this subject, officials stated. Prof. E. Sonet, head of the modern languages department, will preside. Anyone interested is invited to come. Admission is free.

Officer Will Aid Naval Personnel

Sub-Lt. (SB) H. G. Hays, RCNVR, has been appointed dependents' allowance board representative for the Navy in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, it was announced here on Thursday.

This appointment was made as a result of the rapid expansion of the Royal Canadian Navy, involving an increase in the numbers of naval personnel and the problems of their dependents.

At the RCNVR divisions located at Regina, Saskatoon, Edmonton and Calgary, assistance regarding these matters will be rendered by the accountant officer of the division, special cases being referred to Sub-Lt. Hays who will visit the divisions periodically.

Those who reside in many Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta centres where there are no RCNVR divisions may contact Sub-Lt. Hays by mail at 51 Smith Street, Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Formerly a member of the Law Society of Ontario and official Conservative candidate in the Ontario elections of 1942, Sub-Lt. Hays enlisted as a writer and was subsequently promoted to his present rank.

Power Production Shows Large Gain

Power output at the city power plant for the period Jan. 1 to Aug. 13 amounted to 68,963,100 kilowatt hours compared with 61,004,200 for the same period last year, an increase of 7,958,900 kilowatt hours, according to a report filed Thursday with the city commissioners by R. G. Watson, power superintendent.

Of the 1944 period output 55,964,300 was taken by the electric light department compared with 48,444,500 for the 1943 period; 7,776,700 by the street railway system against 7,787,500, and 5,222,000 by the pumping plant compared with 4,772,200 in the 1943 period.

250 of Wartime Homes Finished By Contractors

The last of the 250 houses being built in the Norwood-Parkdale districts have been turned over by the contractors to the Wartime Housing Ltd., it was learned Thursday.

It was reported also that work on the 100 houses in the Westwood area is progressing satisfactorily, and that delivery of these structures at the rate of 45 monthly is anticipated. The entire housing project will be completed before the end of October, an official stated.

START LANDSCAPING

Landscaping of homes in the Norwood and Parkdale area will start next week, the official stated, with experts in this work being sent from Eastern Canada to direct local workmen. An invitation has been sent by the company to all tenants asking them to participate in the landscaping work. This is being done because of the acute labor shortage.

It is understood that a majority of the tenants have indicated willingness to co-operate with the company, and they will assist in the landscaping work on completion of their regular daily duties.

Volunteer Bureau Aids Stamp Drive

On Tuesday next The Citizens' Volunteer Bureau will conduct the third of their regular monthly Stamp Day campaigns.

Women wearing bright red satchels and arm bands will be canvassing all office buildings, Miss Canada girls will sell stamps in the stores and on each down-town street corner the public will be asked to buy War Savings Stamps.

Purchasers of stamps are being asked to provide themselves with a "25 Club Booklet" in which to paste the stamps. When a sheet of this booklet is filled, back and front, the sheet may be torn out of the book and exchanged for a War Savings Certificate which is worth $5 to its holder upon maturity.

Alberta is at the bottom of the list of all provinces in the Dominion in the matter of stamp purchases. Edmonton has been consistently behind Calgary and other Alberta cities, so a supreme effort is being made by the Citizen's Volunteer Bureau to correct this situation and they are appealing directly to all citizens for their support. Additional volunteer workers are needed and are asked to call at the bureau offices or to phone Mrs. J. W. Adair at 31615.

HEAVY LINEN IS COOLER
FROM A PHOTO OF DR. FURBAY TAKEN IN AFRICA

Contrary to general opinion, lightweight clothing is not always cooler than heavyweight clothing. This is true with linen, which is an excellent conductor of body heat. In the tropics heavy linen is worn, for it is coolest. Since linen is also very absorbent, heavier linen more quickly takes up perspiration than does light. Linen is the oldest known textile on earth and is very durable. The "winding sheet" in King Tut's tomb was in good condition after having been in the tomb 3000 years.

U.S. Naval Forces Hitting Japanese On Broad Front

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—(AP)—American naval forces are hitting the Japanese on a 3,500-mile front in the Western Pacific and hold virtual control of 8,000,000 square miles of Pacific waters and islands once dominated by the enemy.

Ralph A. Bard, acting secretary of the navy, reported this yesterday in a review of the Pacific war in which he described the western naval front as extending from Paramushiro in the north Pacific Kurile island chain 3,500 miles south to the Bismarck Sea.

Another naval front line, he said, stretches 2,400 miles from the American-controlled mid-Pacific Marshall islands in the east to the westernmost tip of New Guinea.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

I received a letter from Fred P. Kilchenstein, who is well known in Pittsburgh bridge circles. Fred is doing some special war work in Hawaii. He wrote that his wife has joined him there and he hopes to be able to get in a few hands of bridge in the evenings, although they still have a 10 o'clock curfew.

The last time I saw Fred in Pittsburgh, I watched him play the hand shown today. The opening bid was not at all conventional and the final contract was a bit of a stretch.

Kilchenstein (South) ruffed the second heart lead, and needing to reach dummy, he laid down a trump. West won with the ace and led the ace of clubs, followed by another club, which South won. Another trump was led to dummy's queen and a club returned. West discarded a low diamond, but ruffed the next club lead, then led his last heart. This was trumped in dummy with the king, the diamond finesse taken, and when it held, West's last trump was picked up.

While I do not approve the opening bid nor North's two raises on his weak hand, who can quarrel with success? East of course could have made three hearts, and many made four.

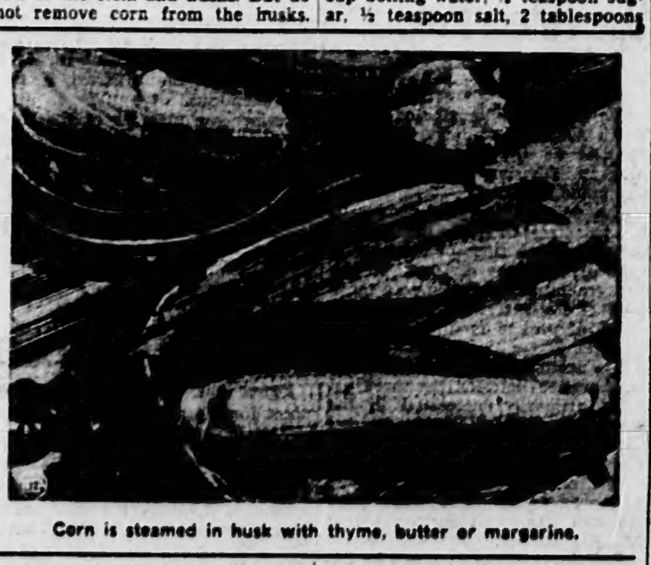
Ladies Take Note!

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Signs bearing the words "No More Women With Trousers" appeared posted at street corners throughout the business district of Mexico City yesterday. The signs add that Mexican women wearing slacks in the streets "dishonor our nationality" and that foreign women doing so "lack the respect that is due Mexico."

War Kitchen

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Ever tried steamed corn? Strip off much of the outer husk. Remove silk. Then, with sharp knife, cut the cob itself free from the base end of the stem and husks. But do not remove corn from the husks.



Corn is steamed in husk with thyme, butter or margarine.

Tie the remaining husks with string about the cob. Place in heavy kettle with very little boiling water. Cover and steam from 8 to 10 minutes.

Green Peppers With Corn Pudding.

(Serves 4)

Four green peppers, 2 cups corn, ½ cup hot milk, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon sugar, ⅛ teaspoon powdered mace, 2 eggs.

Select medium, regular-sized green peppers; cut off tops and remove seeds. Cover with boiling salted water and parboil 5 minutes. Mix corn, with remaining ingredients. Fill the green pepper cups—place in baking dish small enough to hold peppers upright. Fill bottom of dish with water in which peppers were cooked. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 25 minutes until corn custard in the peppers is set, and brown over the top.

Creamed Limas and Corn

Two cups green lima beans, ¼ cup boiling water, ½ teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup corn, cut from cob, ⅓ cup top milk.

Wash limas, add boiling water, sugar, salt. Add the remaining ingredients and continue cooking until corn is well cooked but not overcooked (about 8 minutes).

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Orange juice, ready-to-eat cereal, blueberry muffins, butter, coffee, milk.

LUNCH: Cold patoto and leek soup, tomatoes stuffed with vegetable and fish salad, enriched herd rolls, blackberries, tea, milk.

DINNER: Spanish omelet, sliced cold ham, steamed corn in husks, butter (add a little thyme powdered to butter), mixed green salad, enriched bread, butter, fresh fruit, sponge cake, coffee, milk.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

IMMEDIATE DENTURE SERVICE

It was formerly the practice of dentists to extract teeth and then wait perhaps several months for the gums to heal and become firm and shrink to a more or less permanent form and size, before making denture or plates.

Competent dentists today install plates, not just temporary ones but the plates the patient will wear permanently, immediately after extraction of teeth, before the patient leaves the office.

This is called "immediate denture service."

In most instances the plates or other dentures so installed will require minor adjustments or partial remaking, in all instances the patient will require further care and instruction by the dentist, and in some instances the patient continues wearing the new dentures without interruption or too much discomfort from the hour of extraction.

There is a more cogent reason for immediate denture service than mere personal appearance, although that may be important, particularly for those whose livelihood is at stake. It is a serious handicap to one personally engaged in business, profession or as an artist to have to go without teeth for weeks and months.

Atrophy, wasting, weakening is the inevitable consequence of disuse of muscles, and it makes little difference whether the muscles affected are those used in buttoning your collar or those used in masticating your food. The atrophy, unfortunately, involves not only the muscles but also the other structures, tissues, glands or organs whose functions happen to be related.

This atrophy begins early, within a week or less, and progresses gradually, once the muscles are no longer used regularly. It progresses insidiously, too, so that, if you are inclined to try to ignore your own decline or delinquency, you may remain unaware of the sad withering or degeneration that has overtaken you. You may deceive yourself that you are suffering no serious harm from going toothless, but after all you must acknowledge that it isn't just because they don't look pretty that the government rejects men from military service when they haven't enough teeth to masticate food.

More or less atrophy or degeneration inevitably occurs whenever an individual goes for any length of time minus one or more teeth or dentures to take the place of the missing teeth. The inevitable effects of such crippling are (1) impairment of digestion and consequent malnutrition and early decline of health or vite, which is tantamount to premature old age; and (2) a sad sag in facial lines and loss of whatever youthful symmetry or good looks the stupe may have had in his or her prime.

Minute Make-Ups

If you have a "troubled" skin, work to remedy that condition. But use quick makeup to give a smooth look. Choose a medicated lotion. Blend it with dark rachel liquid powder, smooth on with the fingertips. Use no rouge. Dust lightly with dark rachel face powder. Use as "natural" a red as you can find for lipstick. The blending of makeup shades containing no pink will give your skin a more attractive finish.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Women Crave Sympathy Are Happier Pitied

A Curious Characteristic of Most Women Is That They Have a Morbid Desire For Pity

One of the most curious characteristics of the feminine sex is the morbid craving that women have for sympathy. They would rather be pitied than to be envied and the happiest ones are not those who are sitting pretty on top of the world, it is those who have a greivance that entitles them to be wept over and "poor-Maryed" by their friends.

Considering that pity is bound to be tinged with contempt or at least to carry a certain sense of the superiority of the pitier for the pitiee, it is hard to understand why it is women's favorite dish. But it is and it goes a long way to explain many of their strange reactions to life.

One is, why women endure invalidism with so much more patience than men do. This is generally attributed to their moral heroism and their uncomplaining fortitude but the truth of the matter is that most of them, so long as they are not in actual pain, are having the time of their lives in being objects of compassion. They literally enjoy poor health, as the old country phrase used to go.

HOW DO THEY STAND IT?

In any group of women, no matter how husky they look, nor what good appetites they have, nor how many miles they can walk around a golf links or a department store, the favorite topic of conversation is their ailments. And any sister who hasn't had a major operation, or who can't speak of her poor nerves or her bad heart and doesn't rate at least a "you poor dear, I don't know how you stand it" is always regarded as "queer."

One of the subjects that is a matter of perpetual wonder to us is why women stand mean husbands. We all have women friends married to men who are drunkards and philanderers and who beat them and whom they have to work and support and we can't understand why they don't leave them. The real reason is they get so much pleasure out of being sympathized with that it more than compensates for their sufferings.

Furthermore, wives put sympathy at the head of all the virtues that a husband can possess. It isn't what Friend Husband does that counts with them. It is what he says. As long as a man takes his wife window-shopping and tells her how sorry he is that he can't doll her up in finery, she is perfectly content to wear her old duds. It is only when he growls over buying her a mink coat that she thinks of Reno.

But the worst phase of women's mania for being pitied is when their desire for sympathy makes them tell things about their own children that they should have died rather than make public. Many a girl and boy lose their good names because Mother exaggerates some silly escapade into a crime just because she wants to be wept over, and to indulge her martyr complex.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

The habits which become connected with the ceremony of going to sleep, are the hardest of all habits to break. They become so allied with the child's sense of quiet and relaxation that without them he is literally incapable of letting go so that sleep can pounce upon him.

Most of the battle habits are built up in infancy when the mother is happy to have the baby hang onto his bottle until it falls from his lax hand. She does nothing about the ear-pulling or the night-gown sucking or the bed-rocking, until it becomes so full-fledged a part of the child's preparations for sleep that she becomes frightened and wants to end it immediately.

Mrs. J. T. is bemoaning the fact that her son, who never had a night bottle from his third month, has fallen victim to the habit after a few weeks in the care of his grandmother.

"He doesn't care for the milk that is in it, but he cries until he gets the bottle. He has cried as long as three hours until I could stand it no longer.

"He eats very well, has 18 teeth and weighs 28 pounds. He has only two bottles now, one at naptime and the other at night. The grandmother put him in bed with his bottle which I had never done. He drinks milk out of a glass very well but he won't go to bed without that bottle. What can I do about it?"

I wish you had sent me the stamped envelope I ask for so often, then you could have had this help quickly. Help through the column is never as speedy as the mail.

Since the milk he drinks by bottle is unimportant to him, it should be easy to reduce it ounce by ounce until there is but an ounce to offer him. Take the bottle away as soon as he has finished this ounce and offer him some other attraction to hold while he goes to sleep. Most children have a favorite top they like to have in the crib with them and if you can transfer his recent affection for the bottle to this toy, then you can stop giving the bottle either at nap or bedtime.

What he now needs is some soothing article on which he can fix his attention until he is quiet and relaxed. Then he should fall asleep quickly, if everything else is as right as you can make it.

Our new leaflet called, "Curing Bad Habits," suggests ways by which a child may be weaned from the grip of old habits of various kinds. It may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Myrtle Meyer Eldred, in care of this newspaper.

AWI. Girls Hold Meeting

OLDS, Aug. 17—Forty-five girls from all parts of Alberta gathered at the Olds School of Agriculture, for a four-day convention held from July 25 to July 28, by the Alberta Women's Institute Girls' Clubs. This was the 26th consecutive annual convention, and supervisor, Mrs. Roy Drake of New Dayton, was in charge

Also meeting at the same time were 50 girls who were efficiency winners of the Agricultural clubs under the supervision of Miss Margaret Fraser of the Department of Extension.

Mrs. Drake, in her address of welcome quoted the slogan "For you know you're but rehearsing for to play a woman's part."

DEMONSTRATIONS

Cooking demonstrations, voice culture, health talks, movie pictures on health and addresses on etiquette and good grooming highlighted the convention.

New officers elected were Leona Scheeler of Millet, as secretary-treasurer, and Glenna Gorrill of New Dayton as director of district No. 4.

It was decided to continue sending ditty bags to the Merchant Marine and quilts to the Navy League. Members will make stuffed dolls for the Navy League.

PUBLIC SPEAKING

In the public speaking contest, Glenna Gorrill of New Dayton, took first place and Evelyn King of Leduc was awarded first place in the amateur contest. Leona Scheeler of Millet was awarded first place for the fashion parade, and Maxine Workun won the cup for sports and also the $75 scholarship awarded by the Alberta Surplus Wheat fund to help pay fees for a term at the Olds School of Agriculture.

The social life included a masquerade party when prizes were awarded for the best comic, national and original costumes, besides the daintiest and the prettiest.

BANQUET HELD

On Thursday evening a banquet was held, and guest speakers were Miss Mabel Patrick from the Home Economics department at the university, R. M. Putman, of the Department of Agriculture, and Miss Stewart from Selective Service, Calgary. The prizes were handed out by Mr. Murray, principal of the Olds School of Agriculture.

Highlight of the convention was the tableau, "The Dawn of Happy Living," presented Thursday evening. It pictured what the farm could have in store for a young farm girl, and showed how happiness, health, song, love, music, peace and many other essentials to a happy life, could be obtained on the farm.

Edmontonian In Normandy

According to word received by Mrs. J. A. Clarke, 7852 Jasper avenue, her daughter, Lt. Muriel Clarke, RCAMC, is in Normandy, taking care of Allied fighting men behind the front.

Lt. Clarke writes that the men almost cheered when they saw the girls. It is surprising how well she gets along with her French. She told of a French farmer who had a pail of fresh milk, and who asked her and her companions if they wanted a drink. They hesitated, thinking of the germs the milk might contain, but when they remembered that it was two years since they had seen fresh milk, they accepted the offer thankfully. England has been using powdered milk almost since the outbreak of war.

Lt. Clarke went overseas two years ago last March, and prior to that was stationed at a Canadian hospital in England. Of the Edmonton men she saw recently in England, she mentioned PO. Gordon Ockenden.

She trained in physio-therapy at the University of Toronto and was graduated five years ago, interning at the Toronto General hospital and Alexander Solarium in Victoria. At the time of enlistment, she was in charge of the physio department of the Moose Jaw General hospital.

NEW YORK. — (CP) — Firemen fought a two-alarm fire in a loft at a building where the Universal Budget Systems used red, blue, green and black inks in the manu facture of stamp pads. After fire and water had acted on the multicolored inks, the firemen were covered with a deep purple dye.

CITY GIRL IN FRANCE WITH TROOPS

Lt. Muriel Clarke, RCAMC, daughter of Mrs. Joseph A. Clarke, 7852 Jasper avenue, and the late Joseph A. Clarke, former mayor of Edmonton, who is shown here in battle dress. The picture was taken in England before Lt. Clarke went to Normandy where she is now stationed with the Canadian Army. The nurses and physio therapists are dressed in apparel similar to the men for duty behind the front.

137 Register At New Centre

At Tuesday night's meeting of the board of directors of the War Services Council, Mrs. W. V. Newson reported that 137 women had registered in the Service Women's section of the new Allied War Services recreation centre.

An invitation was extended to the board of directors to attend the luncheon of the United Services club on Thursday at 12:30 p.m. in the YMCA canteen.

Mrs. L. E. Parker asked for approval of renewal of registrations for the following organizations: Second Ladies' Auxiliary to the 9th Army Troops RCE fund, 20th Century War Charities' fund, American Women's Service club fund of Edmonton, Edmonton Royal Canadian Air Force Ladies' Auxiliary fund.

Approval was asked and received for registration for the Strathcona and Commercial hotel cigarette fund.

Dr. George Hunter, chairman of the Allied Arts Council, informed the board that the council was presenting "Dark Eyes," a comedy, at the American Red Cross club on Aug. 28 and 29.

POPULATION COMPARISON

Just prior to the war New York City, including suburbs, had a population of 10,901,000; London, 9,610,000; Tokyo, 5,311,000; Berlin, 4,288,000; Chicago, 4,264,000, and Paris, 3,783,000.

COTTON STYLES

Summer and "Indian Summer" styles have a definite bend toward cotton this year. All cotton outfits, suits and bright dresses have gone dancing and marching up the aisle. Stylists give this formerly ignored material a fling at sophistication by merging gingham jackets with crepe skirts, like the one shown here. Under the natty fitted jacket of brown, blue and white checks, which is worn with a brown crepe skirt, there is a bandeau-bra that is an invitation to the sun. But all that's intended to show when the jacket is on is the bra's brown lace-trimmed bow, which can plainly be seen.

C.G.I.T. Camps Over for Year

The 1944 camping season for C.G.I.T., sponsored by the C.G.I.T. board of Edmonton, is completed. This year four camps were held at Fallis on Lake Wabamun, with 154 girls in attendance from Edmonton, Stony Plain, Cadomin, Fort Saskatchewan, Edson, Wainwright and Spruce Grove.

The camp required a staff of 20 people to guide and direct the interests and pursuits of the teen-age girls for the summer, to say nothing of the amount of cooking it required to satisfy the appetites of the young people.

CAMP DIRECTORS

The directors of camps were: Margaret Robertson, who was in charge of both intermediate camps, Mrs. J. A. Banister, Wetaskiwin, and Mrs. D. C. Thornton.

Leaders of Bible study, interest, and sport groups included: Jean O'Brien and Mrs. R. E. Phillips of Fort Saskatchewan; Hazel Moore, Nelda Faulkner, Pauline Arnett, Eva Saito, Margaret Robertson, Naomi Falkenberg, Dorothy Lawe, Marjorie Steick, Gertrude Hodgeson, Mrs. J. P. McClary and Barbara Powell.

Nurses in charge were Mrs. Roy Bacon, Miss Beulah Windh and Mrs. A. J. H. Powell. Camp mothers were Mrs. F. G. McCoy, Mrs. C. A. Johnson, Mrs. R. Paterson and Mrs. R. Steick.

Mrs. R. Haggerman, assisted by her daughter, Dolores, was in charge of the kitchen.

Hobbies studied were basketry, rhythm band music, music appreciation, drama, world friendship, psychology, and recreational leadership.

Concert, Dance At Country Hall

The Variety Players of Edmonton presented a concert, old-time and modern dance at the Central Community hall of Gwynne and Stony Plain, raising $51 for the Queen's Canadian fund in aid of air raid victims.

The artists taking part were: Ella Davidson, Minnie and Lillian Foster, Edith Johnstone, Dorothy Dunnett, Jessie Duguid, Jeanette Florko, the Fox sisters, Winnie Buckhan, Margaret Pollack, Priscilla Lineker, Fred Baker and Joan Soliwan.

The orchestra included O. MacDonald, Frank Adamson, Wally Passmore, Norman Brown and Ronnie McNeil.

THE PERSONAL COLUMN

STUDENTS attending summer school classes at the University of Alberta, were guests at a tea held in the cafeteria from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. on Thursday. On Wednesday evening a dance was held in Convocation Hall. Featured were waltzes, including old fashioned and Viennese ones. Prizes were awarded for the best Viennese dancers. Judges were Dr. H. E. Smith, and Mrs. Smith, Miss Mary Winspear, Norman Kennedy and G. Chane. The last dance, and the last social event of the summer school season, will be held Friday evening in Convocation hall, from 9 to 12 p.m.

Curtin Seeking Wide Powers at Polls Saturday

CANBERRA, Aug. 17—(CP)— The Australian people go to the polls Saturday to decide whether the government of Prime Minister John Curtin should be given additional power for five years after the war to handle post-war problems

When war started the commonwealth government passed the national security act which gave it wide powers for the conduct of the war which in peace-time would be within the jurisdiction of state governments. It was similar to a law passed in Canada, the war measures act. Both measures terminate when the war ends.

The commonwealth government and most of the state governments feel that the wide powers of the central government will be required in the post-war period. A division of opinion, however, developed over the extent of the added powers so it was decided to hold a referendum on the question.

SERVICE VOTE

Although the referendum was set for Aug. 19, voting now is taking place among servicemen serving outside Australia. In Canada more than 2,000 servicemen are entitled to vote. Australians in the United States with a vote will send their ballots to Ottawa to be counted. Dr. W. A. Wynes, official secretary at the Australian high commissioner's office in Ottawa, is returning officer for North America.

Australia has the power to amend its own constitution whereas in Canada any changes in the British North America Act have to be made by the British parliament at the request of the Dominion government

After the six Australian states federated in 1901, the central government was given peace-time powers in 39 specific matters which ranged from trade and commerce to civil and criminal law.

14 ADDITIONAL POWERS

The Commonwealth government now is asking for 14 additional powers which will carry over five years after the war ends.,

They are:

1—Re-instatement and advancement of war veterans and the advancement of dependents of service personnel who have died or been disabled as a consequence of war.

2—Employment or unemployment.

3—Organized marketing of commodities.

4—Companies laws so that they will be uniform throughout the Commonwealth.

5—Trusts, combines and monopolies.

6—Profiteering and prices (but not prices or rates charged by state or semi-governmental or local governing bodies for goods and services.)

7—The production and distribution of goods with certain limitations requiring approval of state governments.

8—The control of overseas exchange and overseas investments.

9—Air transport.

10—Uniformity of railway gauges.

11—National works, but the central government must receive the consent of a state government before starting work in any state.

12—National health in co-operation with the states.

13—Family allowances.

14—The people of the aboriginal state.

Railway Worker Is Found Dead

A Canadian National Railways employee, said by city police to be A. W. Miller, 64 years old, of 106 avenue and 128 street, was found dead early Thursday morning in a warehouse of the railway's construction department, at 10639 129 street.

The body of Mr. Miller, who had been an employee of the company for the last 40 years, was found by Gordon Graham, foreman, and city police were notified.

Mr. Miller, whose duties were confined to the warehouse and office, was said to have reported for work about 6:30 a.m., did some of his work, and then went to the warehouse. He had been in ill-health for some time.

He was a married man and the father of two children, a son and a daughter.

Yanks Take Wrong Town

By HERBERT L. MATTHEWS
New York Times Correspondent
Distributed by The Canadian Press

ON THE FRENCH RIVIERA, Aug. 17.—Mistakes will happen in amphibious landings, so American paratroopers took the famous resort of St. Tropez, when they should have been somewhere inland. I found a group of tough, happy youngsters here yesterday morning, and since they were satisfied, and so was the high command, there were no kicks coming.

It was a cloudy night, and navigators went by their so-called precision instruments. At a given time they were supposed to be over the target, so they sent the paratroopers out. That was at 4 a.m., and three planes full of men landed on the St. Tropez peninsula, realising immediately that something was wrong. However, paratroopers have to be resourceful.

The Germans attacked with small arms fire as they came down and several were killed. Other Nazis blew up the little port where fashionable yachts used to anchor.

So the paratroopers pitched in and took St. Tropez.

McCoy Health Service

The feet are important because they are the foundation of the body during activity. Those who became conscious of the feet hurting severely soon discover that the foot condition is interfering with such activity as walking, standing, or moving around.

Those undergoing a mild discomfort often become so accustomed to it that they no longer notice it during the day, although they may be conscious when they remove their shoes in the evening that the feet are aching. In such circumstances they probably rub their sore feet for a short time, or take a hot foot bath, and then go to bed promising themselves that "sometime" they will do something about their foot trouble.

However, not all foot disorders cause discomfort in the foot itself, as the distress may be reflexed to other areas; for example, it may cause aches and pains in the calves of the legs, the knees, and the lower back. Or, instead of pain being produced, the foot abnormalities may cause nervousness or tiredness. Under these conditions the patient may not connect his symptoms with the feet.

As an illustration, the patient suffering from flat feet may not feel any local discomfort in the feet themselves—yet an endless list of aches and pains are produced by this weakness.

Foot troubles are of various types, and one patient may complain of fallen arches, another may be troubled by callouses forming on the foot, still another by spurs appearing on the heel, and others may complain of corns and bunions. Sometimes the only complaint is a burning sensation of the feet. Occasionally an individual will be found whose main trouble is excessive perspiration of the feet attended by a disagreeable odor.

In the common arch defects there are three causes which must be considered. The main cause of ordinary arch trouble is the wearing of an improper shot. Because the shoe fails to allow the foot to work in a normal way, some of the small bones are cramped and constructed, with the result that some parts of the foot are strained by doing too much work and other parts are weakened by doing too little.

Most of those desiring help in overcoming foot disorders are interested in relieving fallen arches. The treatment in such cases must often be three-fold: First, it may be necessary to use arch supports as an aid to immediate relief; second, it is advisable to strengthen the feet by suitable exercises; and third, the patient must be willing to wear the proper shoe.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped, self addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Money Is Missing From Two Places

Thieves who broke into two business places during Wednesday night or early Thursday morning, obtained sums of money from each place, according to city police.

Entering the England cafe at 102 avenue and 101 street by means of a ventilator, sometime after midnight, thieves stole $117 in cash and two watches. Gaining entrance into the Union cafe, 10210 97 street, by means of the skylight, a total of $36 was taken from an open drawer.

Confirmation Of Resignation Is Given Here

Chief Justice W. C. Ives confirmed Thursday that he has sent in his resignation from the trial division of the supreme court of Alberta to authorities in Ottawa, and was awaiting its acceptance. He arrived here Thursday morning from the southern section of the province to hold court.

First appointed to the supreme court bench on July 11, 1914, was appointed chief justice of the trial division on the death of the late Chief Justice C. R. Mitchell.

Chief Justice Ives was born at Gompton, Que., on Oct. 31, 1873, the son of George Canning Ives and Sarah Abbie Ives. He came west in 1881 and was educated at the public school at Pincher Creek Academy, Coaticook, Que., and McGill University.

STARTED PRACTICE

He started the practice of law as a student in Montreal, and in 1900 practiced in that city as a member of the firm of Martin, Girouard and Ives. He was admitted to the bar of the North West Territories in 1901 and practiced at Lethbridge until his appointment to the supreme court bench in 1914.

Chief Justice Ives was popular with members of the Alberta bar.

Prior to his taking up the study of law he was a cowboy on Alberta's plains, and recently in company with two other judges of the supreme court, also formerly riders of the plains he returned to the saddle and rode the trails of the southern ranching country.

1,200 Planes Blast Berlin, Kiel, Stettin

By WILLIAM R. HIGGINBOTHAM
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1944, by British United Press

LONDON, Aug. 17—Nearly 1,200 RAF and Dominion bombers struck into Germany last night to batter Berlin and the northern seaports of Stettin and Kiel, but unfavorable weather restricted early Allied operations today.

Four-engined Halifaxes and Lancasters hit the two great Baltic ports with around 1,000 tons each, while Mosquitos dropped two-ton blockbusters on the German capital for the third consecutive night.

SMASH AT FLEET

It was the seventh heavy attack in the past 60 days on Kiel, the home base for the badly-shaken German navy, and was aimed at smashing the Nazi fleet at its source.

At Stettin, the big bombers attempted to choke the important Berlin-Stettin canal, which is being used increasingly by the Germans to move supplies to the East Prussian front and carry evacuees from danger areas.

Returning pilots reported the heavy bomb loads started large fires at both Stettin and Kiel.

Sixteen planes were lost in the night operations, which also included extensive mine-laying missions.

Weather curtailed most of the Allied air effort over northern France yesterday, but Allied fighters and fighter-bombers found a hole in the clouds late in the afternoon to sweep the roads east of the Falaise Gap.

BLAST THIRTY TANKS

In a single hour, they destroyed or damaged 30 German tanks and 275 motor vehicles among columns of enemy transport moving northeast from the Falaise area toward Bernay and the Seine.

In connection with the Allied aerial blows on synthetic oil plants and refineries in Germany, Maj. Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenburg, commander of the U.S. 9th TAF, said the Nazi's fuel supply was being "cut to the point where it hurts."

He pointed out that the Allied air forces were co-ordinating their attacks to "produce good results" in striking Germany's gasoline and oil sources.

Editors Urged to Face Challenge

WINNIPEG, Aug. 17.—(CP)—A challenge to editors to "a bit more preaching" on moral and spiritual standards in preparation for the post-war world was made here today by C. V. Charters of Brampton, Ont., managing director of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association.

The publisher of the Brampton Conservator told the association's 25th annual convention that returned personnel of the armed forces "will become demoralized unless they come back and find a fight going on to put moral and spiritual standards back into home, business, club and community life."

If persons demobilized can be enlisted into this kind of a fight then there's some hope of winning the peace and making it stick, said Mr. Charters.

He urged the 300 editors, from the Yukon to Newfoundland, to face the challenge courageously and start now." A lot more depneds on us than we realize in creating this new sacrificing spirit in the hearts and minds of our fellow Canadians—a God-given spirit of true patriotism and true world citizenship. Unless true religion finds a more prominent place in the post-war weekly press we will have failed in our duty . . ."

Most Americans Back Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Aug. 17. — (AP) — Americans favor re-election of President Roosevelt over Republican nominee Thomas E. Dewey by 52.5 to 43.9 per cent., according to Fortune Magazine's latest public opinion survey announced yesterday. The survey showed that Mr. Roosevelt's lead, now 8.6 per cent., had risen from 6.5 per cent. when the last survey was announced July 8.

Floods Retard Completion of North Bridge

While work is now progressing "pretty well" on the new $250,000 steel bridge across the Athabasca River at Smith, it will be April before the structure is ready for highway traffic, Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, said on Thursday.

It was originally planned to have the bridge open for traffic by next January, but floods in the Pembina and Paddle River valleys have made this impossible. Crews working on the span were rushed into the flood district to repair bridge damage sustained there.

PIER FINISHED

North bank pier of the bridge is complete and the south bank pier is almost finished, Mr. Fallow said. Two midstream piers have yet to be built, before the actual bridge structure will start.

Immediate work at the bridge site will be to drive a false bridge across the river from both banks, in order to start work on the last two piers. This false assembly will be used also in assembly of bridge spans.

Water at the bridge is now seven feet above normal, and will tend to slow up work, Mr. Fallow stated. Work on the false bridge will have to stop if the water gets too deep.

The Athabasca bridge will be three spans in length, and will have an almost exact duplicate in another being built at Rocky Mountain House over the North Saskatchewan River.

SECOND STRUCTURE

This second structure will be started as soon as skilled mechanics are available. Preliminary work at Rocky is almost finished, the bridge site having been staked out.

Designs and bills of material are completed for the Saskatchewan River span, and everything is in readiness for an early start on the work. No estimate has been made regarding probable opening date of this bridge.

District Soldier Killed in Action

Sapper R. F. Adamson, Royal Canadian Engineers, was killed in action in France on Aug 8, according to word received by his mother, Mrs. J. B. Adamson, of Fort Saskatchewan. He went overseas in the spring of 1940 with the 9th Army Troops Company, RCE.

Mrs. Adamson, who is a widow, has three other sons in the Armed Forces.

City Airman Takes Part in Sub Kill

Sgt. T. E. Hoosen, of 11119 60 street, who is serving overseas as a flight engineer with the RCAF, was the member of a coastal command aircraft that recently attacked successfully a German submarine.

The aircraft was assigned the job of gathering samples of weather, and authorities also had thrown in for good measure a short anti-sub sweep as a piece of cake after the dose of castor oil, as the crewmen put it.

A sub was sighted on the surface and the attack alarm was sounded. The aircraft went into a shallow dive and headed straight for the target. Flashes of cannon fire stabbed at the plane from the two gunposts on the U boat's conning tower and flak burst to both port and starboard.

Depth charges were dropped and the big flying boat swooped on and upward. The machine guns of the plane raked the sub with fire. Soon an explosion occurred and the U-boat sank leaving quantities of wreckage and several acres of oil on the ocean.

Partisans Fight Major Battles Against Nazis

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS

ON THE FRENCH-SWISS FRONTIER, Aug. 17—(AP)— Frenchmen throughout Haute Savoie, supplied with guns and ammunition dropped by Allied planes during the last week, fought on bitterly this morning in a major revolt against the Nazis they had learned so well to hate during four years of occupation now drawing to an end.

Just after midnight big fires could be seen on Mount Saleve just outside Geneva. Germans were smoked out of the school buildings at Ville La Grande where they had held out all day Wednesday.

The region was completely under Partisan control. Just before midnight last night Allied planes dropped new supplies to feed the battle. It was reported reliably that a series of supply gliders landed in the French Juras just after dusk Wednesday.

There was no doubt that a general uprising, a real revolt, was in progress. Village after village was liberated during the afternoon. Fighting French appeared at custom posts. Fighting between German soldiers and SS units helped to spread chaos in the Nazi garrisons.

German army troops at Thonon-Les-Bains fought a bitter, day-long battle with machine-guns, rifles and hand-to-hand against their own Gestapo and SS units, while outside the town between Avian and Thonon Partisans carried out a heavy offensive against occupation troops. Big fires were started in the village of Amphion and Nazi troops there fled in disorder.

While a Partisan division of around 13,000 men surrounded Annecy 400 men captured the bridge of Caille on the highway to Geneva and established control of the entire front.

FULL MOBILIZATION

The French mobilization for the revolt was general. Men from 16 to 60 in unoccupied villages turned out about 100 per cent, and hastened to the fighting points. The women organized makeshift canteens to feed the newest army of liberation, and started a supply service to provide beds and blankets.

Montreal & Toronto

MONTREAL, Aug. 17—(CP)—Papers, generally steady to stronger, led in activity on the Montreal stock exchange today. Consolidated Paper, up a fraction, was most ctive. Bathurst, Howard Smith and Donnacona also gained, while International Paper and Price slipped. C.P.R. was also active, varying from steady to slightly better. Mines and Metals tended to soften.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—(AP)—The peace-minded investors continued to take on modest amounts of stocks with good post-war prospects in today's market, but there was no real buying rush for most categories.

Prices slipped here and there in the final hour but again hardened near the close with gains running to more than a point predominating. Transfers exceeded the 1,000,000-share mark for the first time in a week.

Rye Trading at Winnipeg Light

WINNIPEG, Aug. 17—(CP)—Rye futures declined late in the session today on the Winnipeg grain exchange after posting gains of nearly a cent in early trading. Final values were ½ to ⅝ lower with October at $1.07½, December $1.05⅝-¾, and May $1.07⅛-¼.

Trading was light and weakness at Chicago influenced the late slump.

United Kingdom buyers purchased 600,000 bushels of top grade wheat and neutrals 50,000 bushels. United States traders bought 300,000 bushels of oats.

Nickel Company Profit $13,686,390

TORONTO, Aug. 17—(CP)—The International Nickel Company of Canada, Limited and subsidiaries realized a net profit of $13,686,390 in terms of United States currency in the six months ended June 30, 1944. This was equal to 87 cents on each common share outstanding after preferred dividends. The company earned $1.04 for each common share in the first six months of 1943.

Firm Undertone In Chicago Pit

CHICAGO, Aug. 17—(AP)—General relief from drought conditions in the eastern corn belt failed to encourage bears in the grain market today and a firm undertone prevailed in all trading pits with wheat showing independent strength.

Bullish sentiment in the face of greatly improved weather conditions was attributed to indications of renewed political efforts to assure farmers higher prices for their products.

Local demand for wheat found the market rather bare of offerings and prices advanced to new highs for the day.

Relative weakness of September oats was due to a rather steady flow of offerings without sufficient buying interest to absorb them readily.

At the close wheat was unchanged to ⅝ higher, oats ¼ higher to 1 cent lower, rye unchanged to ⅜ lower, barley ¼ higher to ¼ lower.

City Flier in Crew

Canucks Bag U-Boat On Weather Patrol

WITH THE RCAF IN ICELAND, Aug. 17.—(CP)—They started out on what the co-pilot termed "more or less of a 'Joe' job"—gathering weather samples for guidance of other crews, but before they returned the crewmen of an RCAF coastal command aircraft also had delivered a successful attack on a German submarine.

FO. Bert Hunter, 24, Langley, B.C., said that in addition to the "Met" flight the station authorities also had "thrown in a short anti-submarine sweep for us—a piece of cake after the dose of castor oil, you might say."

"Generally we go out looking for subs and run into dirty weather instead," said Flt. Lt. Eric Wisken, 28, Island Falls, Ont., the navigator, "but this day we went looking for weather and found the pig boat."

HEADS FOR TARGET

Hunter sighted the enemy, action stations was sounded and the plane went into a shallow dive. As it headed for the target, flashes of cannon fire stabbed at it from two gun posts on the U-boat's conning tower, and flak burst to port and starboard.

"We were only aware of it vaguely," said FO. Tommy Cooke, DFC, 24, Clinton, Ont., and Dauphin, Man., the captain. "We were out to get that sub ahead of anything else."

WO. G. McMacken, 33, Winnipeg, second wireless operator air gunner, was gunner in the nose, and he pitted his two machine-guns against the two 20-millimetre cannon on the sub. His gunfire sent the U-boat's cannon crews tumbling down the conning tower hatch.

DROP DEPTH BOMBS

Depth charges were dropped and the big flying boat swooped on and up. FO. Peter Ficek, 28, Fort William, first wireless air gunner, swept the sub's gun positions and conning tower hatch with intermittent bursts of fire. Then the U-boat sank.

The patrol plane remained at the scene for several hours, long after several relief aircraft arrived. Quantities of wreckage and a large spread of oil seemed to indicate destruction of the target.

Other members of the patrol plane's crew were Flt. Sgt. Earl Tilander, 20, Toronto; Sgt. Eric Hill, Minot Mines, B.C., and Sgt. T. E. Hoosen, 11119 60 street, Edmonton.

London Paper Raps Handling Of War News

LONDON, Aug. 17—(CP)—The Daily Mirror said editorially today that Allied supreme headquarters blundered in the reported mixup over the commands of Gen. Montgomery and Lt.-Gen. Bradley.

The editorial added that "in the general handling of the war news" headquarters "has been amateurish, inconsistent and confusing."

"It is time efficiency was established in this vital matter," the newspaper said, demanding that Gen. Montgomery be offered "an apology" for printed and broadcast statements he was "demoted" to equal footing with Gen. Bradley.

STATUS UNCHANGED

Supreme headquarters issued a statement Wednesday that there had been no change in Gen. Montgomery's status as deputy in the field to Supreme Commander Gen. Eisenhower, and that he still commanded all ground forces including Gen. Bradley's 12th Army Group.

Dispatches carried yesterday by the Associated Press, Reuter and the British Press Association said Gen. Bradley assumed a command equal to that of Gen. Montgomery's because of his command of the 12th Army Group.

The AP dispatch was based on information from the field, passed by American army censorship, and headquarters of Reuter and the Press Association said their stories had been confirmed by an official in the headquarters conference room.

Chinese Forces Open Offensive

CHUNGKING, Aug. 17—(AP)—Chinese forces have begun an offensive in the vicinity of the Yangtze river port of Ichang, westernmost Japanese stronghold in Central China, the Chinese high command announced yesterday.

A communique disclosed that on the evening of Aug. 14 Chinese troops attacked on both the north and south banks of the river and by Tuesday morning had broken through the enemy's lines at several points and were pressing forward steadily.

It was not made clear whether this action represented a serious attempt to take Ichang or merely was one of the periodical Chinese harassing moves in this area.

The high command also reported unremitting Chinese attempts to recapture Hengyang on the Hankow-Canton railroad.

Ford-Canada Forty Years Old Today

Forty years ago today—August 17, 1904—Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, started business in this little Walkerville, Ontario, factory with a small drill press and a freight hoist as equipment. Seventeen men on the payroll turned out 117 Ford passenger cars in the first year, assembling parts imported from Detroit. From this modest factory has developed the vast Ford plant of today with 15,000 workers—the biggest producer of military vehicles in the British Empire. 1,893,162 Ford automobiles since 1904 is the production record of Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, which started business in this country forty years ago today—August 17, 1904. Included in that total are 338,978 military vehicles—more than half of all vehicles of that type made in Canada since the war broke out. Among the 50 kinds of fighting machines made by Ford is the universal carrier—like that coming off the assembly line, above—and on its birthday, the company had turned out 27,678 carriers for the United Nations. Ford is the only maker of the carrier in Canada.

Ford of Canada Is Celebrating 40th Birthday

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 17 — Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited is forty years old today. The anniversary passed without ceremony as the 15,000 workers at the huge plant here, finished the day with the Company's war production at 338,978 military vehicles, representing more than 50 per cent of all mechanized transport for the United Nations made in Canada since war began.

The historical milestone occurred with the Ford plant concentrating on war work, for no passenger cars have been built since April, 1942.

Production totals today showed that the company, in making 338,978 military vehicles, has turned out fifty different types of transport for the fighting fronts, ranging self-propelled anti-aircraft gun trucks. Included in war production has been almost continuous output of the universal carrier, the all-purpose fighting machine which Ford alone makes in Canada. Carrier No. 27,678 capped the day's production.

1,893,162 FORDS

Including the military units, it was announced, the company has manufactured 1,893,162 Fords since it went into business in Canada forty years ago. The start came in a wagon factory with seventeen men on the payroll. In the first year they turned out 117 Fords by assembling parts imported from the United States. Passenger Fords in those days were natty little bright red cars with open tonneau.

The Number One war job in the vast plant, according to technicians, has been mass production of the universal carrier. Number One technical advance of war days has been adaptation of steel casting in spinning moulds to uses never before attempted. This centrifugal casting at one time smashed a critical bottleneck on airplane cylinder barrels which were grounding many trainer planes in Commonwealth Air Training Plan camps. The casting method also has cut production costs by saving materials and speeding output.

In all, during the Ford war program, company technicians have saved more than $10,000,000 through improvements in design, short cuts in manufacturing methods, introduction of better materials, etc. On the universal carrier alone they have made almost 2,000 suggestions which have been adopted and have saved the country large sums.

Ford employees here have achieved a notable war record apart entirely from their round-the-clock production of war material. Since the war began, 4,300 of them have entered the services. Men and women in plant and offices have bought Victory Bonds worth $9,134,000 and War Saving Certificates worth $3,138,000. And men and women together have given over 18,000 blood donations to the Canadian Red Cross, to aid fellow-Canadians on the fighting lines.

The anniversary celebration here was shared by subsidiaries of Ford of Canada overseas. In Australia, Ford is making mines, military vehicles, universal carriers and machinery. In India and South Africa, Ford plants are making military trucks. In New Zealand, the Ford plant has recently produced its 3,000,000th hand grenade, and makes trucks as well.

Great Daylight Blows

Character of War in Air Changes as Troops Advance

By ALAN RANDAL

LONDON, Aug. 17.—(CP)—The character of the war in the air is changing as the Allied ground forces advance in France and the day has come when the great forces of bomber command, which a while back everybody was saying could be used only at night, are operating in broad daylight.

So far their daylight operations have been purely tactical, in support of ground troops. The "earthquake bombing" of German troops before Canadian forces advancing at Caen is an instance.

For this the bombers flew so low that Sgt. Lucien Guilbeau of Montreal, a gunner in the Canadian Alouette squadron, was able to strafe German tanks after the bombs had been dropped.

RISKY BUSINESS

In the battle area the employment of cannon-firing or rocket-discharging fighters or both to form an explosive spearhead for tank columns is another new departure—and a risky one. Pilots making these flights sometimes fly so low that they even come under pistol fire from the enemy and the light flak is heavy.

Aircraft of the Canadian bomber group and others of bomber command have made sorties in daylight to attack flying-bomb bases in enemy held territory.

The air crews say they like the switch-over from night to day operations.

"It was staggering to see fields and the sun after 42 operations in the dark," said one pilot. "At first I thought we would be shot to bits but our fighter escort kept the enemy off.

"Though we were rusty when we tried formation flying I feel confident that soon all heavies will work in daylight. We have enough fighters to keep them safe."

Special Pharmacy Course Is Urged

TORONTO, Aug. 17—(CP)—Revisions in the present course of pharmaceutical training, recommended yesterday at the first Canadian conference of pharmaceutical faculties, included abolition of the present system of apprenticeship, and the inauguration of a standardized course of study across Canada.

The conference advocated that a three-year college course leading to a degree of bachelor of science in pharmacy be inaugurated. Present requirement calls for a two-year college course with three years' apprenticeship.

Dean E. L. Woods, of the College of Pharmacy of the University of Saskatoon, in outlining the aims of the conference said they would promote pharmaceutical education and keep the profession abreast of all new developments in order to assure the efficiency of the health services offered the public.

Members attending the conference included: C. N. Wood, British Columbia Pharmaceutical Association; Prof. D. McDougall, Department of Pharmacy, University of Manitoba; Dr. A. W. Mathews, School of Pharmacy, University of Alberta.

Credits Air Force

OTTAWA, Aug. 17.—(CP)—Success of the Allied invasion of France would have been impossible but for the years of effort put in by the Allied air forces leading up to that event, Rt. Hon. Harold Balfour, British under-secretary of state for air, said here yesterday at a press conference.

YOU'RE IN THE ARMY NOW

"My gosh!—Yesterday was my wedding anniversary and I didn't send anything to the missus."

Canada Builds Powerful New Weapon of War

OTTAWA, Aug. 17—(CP)—Canada has designed and produced a powerful new weapon of war—a 25-pounder full-tracked, self-propelled gun mount known as the "Sexton"—which already is displaying its power in France, Munitions Minister Howe announced last night.

Built only in Canada, this new "secret weapon" already has been made in sufficient quantities to supply the Canadian Army and now is being made for the British Army, he said. It has been in action in Normandy and perhaps in the new invasion in Southern France.

TRAVELS ON TRACKS

The Sexton travels on tracks, serves as an artillery unit in armored formations and also is used as tank buster.

A modification of the Canadian-designed ram tank, it actually is a turretless tank carrying the deadly 25-pounder gun. It has the same speed and manoeuvrability as the fastest Allied tanks and fires with "great effect" at high speed and long range.

The gun for the new mount is virtually the same as the 25-pounder which stopped Rommel at El Alamein and has been used with great effectiveness in all subsequent British and Canadian engagements. On the Sexton mounting, the mobility and usefulness of the 25-pounder have been more than trebled.

Operated as a single unit, it dispenses with the standard artillery tractor and trailer, and carries within itself its crew of six and its ammunition. Its great speed and climbing power are supplied by an air-cooled aviation engine situated at the rear. Its gun fires from a frontal position, can be elevated 40 degrees and depressed nine degrees below the horizontal.

JUSTIFIABLY PROUD

Mr. Howe said in his announcement that Canada could "rightly take pride in the inventiveness of her engineers and skill of her workers in turning out this Canadian weapon."

Much of the credit, he added, was owing to the army engineering design branch and the automotive and tank production branch of the munitions department.

London Fears Robot Terror Of New Type

LONDON, Aug. 17.—(CP)—Flying bombs were hurled in artillery-like salvos at London and South England yesterday and last night, ending the dark-hour respite for the Metropolitan area, as the public speculated on possible new terrors from improved rockets.

"Is evacuation of women and children becoming even more urgent?" asked the London Evening News, alluding to public demands for more information about the Nazis' new V-2 terror weapon.

CHILDREN VICTIMS

"Already 500 children have been killed and another 1,000 injured. If rockets descend on London we must not have children still here as victims for Hitler's dying venom," the paper said.

There has been some consideration by censorship and security officials over the advisability of relaxing the present policy to give the public information on both flying bombs and rockets.

Home Secretary Herbert Morrison acknowledged there had been looting but said there was no evidence to suggest it was the work of professional gangs.

As the enemy sought with short concentrated attacks to get flying bombs through the defence belt, coastal batteries reported repeated successes in getting robots on the wing. Seashore towns shook as one ton after another of their powerful loads exploded in the air or plummeted into the channel and open country.

Of those that got through one fell in a busy shopping district at the crossroads of a southern England town, killing, injuring and trapping many persons.

Dewey Opposes Power Politics

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey's warning against "cynical power politics" yesterday highlighted one of the knotty problems facing farmers of the post-war peace:

How to give small countries a voice in the world peace-enforcing agency and yet satisfy demands, notably from Russians, that the little countries not be permitted to impede swift action to quell threatened aggression.

There was no immediate comment from the state department on the statements by Governor Dewey, who said he was deeply disturbed by reports indicating that at the Dumbarton Oaks conference opening next Monday "it is planned to subject the nations of the world, great and small, permanently to the coercive power of the four nations holding this conference."

The question of the role of small countries has been under discussion for some time.

Recently, in an unofficial magazine article, a Russian writer suggested that it would be wise to leave decisions on the use of force to quell aggression to powerful countries with armes on hand.
